Ephesians 5:11, 13-16: "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, Redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

The 1828 Noah Webster Dictionary defines:

Reprove: To blame, to convince of a fault, or to make it manifest, to excite a sense of guilt.

Circumspectly: Cautiously; with watchfulness every way; with attention to guard against surprise or danger.

Matthew 24:24: "...if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect."

II Corinthians 2:11: "Lest Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices."

II Chronicles 7:14: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

I John 4:18: "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."

Heb 13:6: "So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me."

II Timothy 1:7: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

Obama Fulfills Islamic Prophecy, Builds Altar To Satan To Accept Destiny

A final troubling disclosure at the conclusion of this entry may cast light on why Obama seemed fascinated with such anti-Christian symbolism in the lead-up to his election victory. A Hadith (tradition) sacred to Shiite Islam from the 17th century contains a prophecy from Ali ibn Abi-Talib, which predicts that just before the return of the Imam Mahdi (the end-times redeemer of Islam), a "tall black man will assume the reins of government in the West." This leader will command "the strongest army on earth" and will bear "a clear sign" from the third imam, the name Hussein. The prophecy concludes that: "Shiites should have no doubt that he is with us." Does this Islamic prophecy identify Obama as the "promised warrior" who comes to help the savior of Shiite Muslims conquer the world? Amir Taheri asked this very question for Forbes Magazine in October, 2008, pointing out how "Obama's first and second names—Barack Hussein—mean 'the blessing of Hussein' in Arabic and Persian" while his "family name, Obama, written in the Persian alphabet, reads O Ba Ma, which means 'he is with us,'." Leap forward to 2009, and Barack Hussein Obama on June 4 gave an unprecedented speech to the Muslim world from Cairo, Egypt declaring that he is launching a new era between the United States and the Muslim world. For the first time, Obama was forthright about his Muslim heritage and stated that the United States—which he is on record as saying is "no longer a Christian nation"—is now "one of the largest Muslim countries in the world." Newsweek editor Evan Thomas followed the president's speech with a declaration reflected in the opinion of many, that “Obama is standing above the country, above the world, he is a sort of God. <http://www.raidersnewsnetwork.com/apollyon-nine.htm>

Men Dressed As Women to Teach in Schools?

March 31, 2010 Do you want men dressed as women teaching your kids? Barack Obama and Nancy Pelosi are trying to make that happen when Congress votes on the so-called Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA).

This dangerous legislation would actually bring cross-dressing teachers into the classroom. Under ENDA your children will be trapped in classes taught by drag queens and transgender activists. This is a pro-LGBT (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender) bill that will force every business with 15 or more employees to hire and affirm men who wear dresses and individuals who have undergone a complete or half “sex change.” This includes every school in America and children will be victimized by these bizarre individuals.

The warning signs are all around us. Obama has forced socialized health care on us – and taxpayer funded abortions. He’s bragged about how he will wear all of us down so that he can achieve his extremist objectives. And last Friday, he recess appointed a radical lesbian lawyer named Chai Feldblum (the author of ENDA) to become a member of the powerful Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Feldblum is a vicious opponent of religious freedom and a long-time activist for the LGBT political agenda. She will use her authority on the EEOC to suppress religious liberty. Obama knew that he couldn’t get Feldblum confirmed by the full Senate because of her bizarre views on marriage and religious liberty, so he pulled a fast one last Friday and made his recess appointment. Feldblum will be Obama’s ruthless enforcer of ENDA.

TAKE ACTION NOW:
Contact your legislators. Tell them to vote NO on ENDA.

TVC has launched the www.endahurtkids.com campaign to warn parents about the chaos ENDA will bring into our children’s classroom. Make no mistake: If ENDA passes, children in public schools will become the primary targets of recruitment by LGBT activists.

A vote on ENDA is expected in the House Education and Labor Committee on April 14 and a vote will take place in the House before the end of April.

TAKE ACTION NOW: Contact your legislators. Tell them to vote NO on ENDA.

New Field Of Nutrigenomics Reveals How What You Eat Now Can Prevent Future Disease

Kansas State University (K-State) researchers have joined a growing number of scientists who say a relatively new medical field known as nutrigenomics could change the future of public health forever. How? By tailoring strategies to prevent diseases before they can happen -- diseases that might otherwise be in a person's future because of his or her genetic makeup. The key to this revolutionary stop-disease-before-it-happens strategy isn't a new drug, vaccine or sophisticated gene therapy. Instead, it is eating specific foods. K-State researchers recently published an academic journal article in Food Technology outlining the potential for nutrigenomics, a field that studies the effects of food on gene expression. Simply put, scientists could eventually recommend specific foods for an individual based on his or her genetics that will prevent future diseases -- especially those that tend to "run in families", such as certain cancers, type 2 diabetes, cardiovascular diseases and even obesity.

Stunning Research Shows High Potential For DNA Damage From Nanoparticles

Nanoparticles may be able to damage the DNA of cells without ever coming into contact with it, according to a study conducted by researchers from the Bristol Implant Research Center and published in the journal Nature Nanotechnology. Nanoparticles are particles so small that they have fundamentally different physical and chemical properties than the same substances do at more familiar scales. Industry is increasingly adopting nanotechnology for a variety of applications, from consumer products to medicine, but the technology remains unregulated. Researchers created particles of chromium and cobalt that were either four millionths (micro scale) or 30 billionths (nano scale) of a meter across, then placed them on a thin, artificial membrane composed of human cells. On the other side of the membrane, researchers placed human fibroblast cells, which are important components of connective tissue. They found that although no particles crossed the cellular membrane, fibroblast cells placed across from the metal particles suffered DNA damage in 10 times as many locations and cells placed next to a membrane with nothing on the other side.

Regulated Or Not, Nano-Foods Coming To A Store Near You

(March 24) -- For centuries, it was the cook and the heat of the fire that cajoled taste, texture, flavor and aroma from the pot. Today, that culinary voodoo is being crafted by white-coated scientists toiling in pristine labs, rearranging atoms into chemical particles never before seen.

At last year's Institute of Food Technologists international conference, nanotechnology was the topic that generated the most buzz among the 14,000 food-scientists, chefs and manufacturers crammed into an Anaheim, Calif., hall. Though it's a word that has probably never been printed on any menu, and probably never will, there was so much interest in the potential uses of nanotechnology for food that a separate daylong session focused just on that subject was packed to overflowing.

In one corner of the convention center, a chemist, a flavorist and two food-marketing specialists clustered around a large chart of the Periodic Table of Elements. The food chemist, from China, ran her hands over the chart, pausing at different chemicals just long enough to say how a nano-sized version of each would improve existing flavors or create new ones.

One of the marketing guys questioned what would happen if the consumer found out.

The flavorist asked whether the Food and Drug Administration would even allow nanoingredients.

Posed a variation of the latter question, Dr. Jesse Goodman, the agency's chief scientist and deputy commissioner for science and public health, gave a revealing answer. He said he wasn't involved enough with how the FDA was handling nanomaterials in food to discuss that issue. And the agency wouldn't provide anyone else to talk about it.

This despite the fact that hundreds of peer-reviewed studies have shown that nanoparticles pose potential risks to human health -- and, more specifically, that when ingested can cause DNA damage that can prefigure cancer and heart and brain disease.

Officially, the FDA says there aren't any nano-containing food products currently sold in the U.S.

Not true, say some of the agency's own safety experts, pointing to scientific studies published in food science journals, reports from foreign safety agencies and discussions in gatherings like the Institute of Food Technologists conference.

In fact, the arrival of nanomaterial onto the food scene is already causing some big-chain safety managers to demand greater scrutiny of what they're being offered, especially with imported food and beverages. At a conference in Seattle last year hosted by leading food safety attorney Bill Marler, presenters raised the issue of how hard it is for large supermarket companies to know precisely what they are purchasing, especially with nanomaterials, because of the volume and variety they deal in

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO MONSANTO

Monsanto's controversial past combines some of the most toxic products ever sold with misleading reports, pressure tactics, collusion, and attempted corruption. They now race to genetically engineer (and patent) the world's food supply, which profoundly threatens our health, environment, and economy. Combining secret documents with first-hand accounts by victims, scientists, and politicians, this widely praised film exposes why Monsanto has become the world's poster child for malignant corporate influence in government and technology.

Abortion Now More Important Than Parental Rights

I never cease to be amazed at how absolute the abortion right has become. Women not only have a right to abortion, through the ninth month in many cases, but so do children—and they can obtain an abortion in some states without their parents even knowing they underwent a serious surgical procedure. Children can't take an aspirin without parental consent. They can't legally enter into contracts. They can't get their ears pierced without a parental signature. They can't get tattoos. They can't get a driver's license or join the military. But Seattle school officials conspired to obtain a 15 year old's abortion behind her parents' backs—during school hours!—and it is all legal. From the story: "The mother of a Ballard High School student is fuming after the health center on campus helped facilitate her daughter's abortion during school hours. The mother, whom KOMO News has chosen to identify only as "Jill," says the clinic kept the information "confidential." When she signed a consent form, Jill figured it meant her 15 year old could go to the Ballard Teen Health Center located inside the high school for an earache, a sports physical, even birth control, but not for help terminating a pregnancy. "She took a pregnancy test at school at the teen health center," she said. "Nowhere in this paperwork does it mention abortion or facilitating abortion."

Mexican Police Forces Turn To Voodoo, Blood Sacrifices On Full Moons To Win Desperate Battle Against Violent Cartels

Police in Tijuana, a city just south of the US/Mexican border near San Diego, have resorted to the strange rituals, which also include animal sacrifice and spirit tattoos amid claims they are "running scared" of the savage trafficking gangs. During the rituals, priests slaughter chickens on full moon nights on beaches and smear police with the blood while using prayers to evoke spirits to help protect them from drug cartels battling over smuggling routes into California. Mexico has been gripped by a wave of drug-related violence since Felipe Calderón, the Mexican President, declared war on the drug cartels almost four years ago. The country's drug barons have engaged in an increasingly bloody battle as they vie to demonstrate their power and ruthlessness. They have infiltrated local forces – bribing corrupt police and civil officials – while hit men armed with automatic rifles, grenades and rocket launchers are regularly seen paying visits to those who refuse to engage with the gangs. The raging war has left many police in cities including Tijuana, considered one of the country's deadliest, in fear of their lives with many told they will get a bullet if they say no to requests. More than 150 police officers have died throughout the area over the past few years

Cops & CPS Seize Child From Parents For Mistrusting Government

Paul Joseph Watson-Prison Planet.com-Friday, April 2, 2010--A family in Williamson County, Austin have lost custody of their 7-year-old son as part of a Child Protective Services investigation because the parents taught their children to mistrust the government, an action that deemed them to be “unsuitable parents,” according to charges leveled by police officers in CPS documents.

Drug reform activist filmmakers Barry and Candi Cooper recently had their home raided and searched by police after authorities claimed Cooper's voice had been heard in the background of an allegedly false police report.

“Once in the couple's home, officers discovered a small amount of marijuana and charged the Coopers with Class B misdemeanors, resulting in both their arrests. Each immediately bonded out of jail and paid a small fine. Days later, while Candi's youngest son was visiting his father in east Texas, Child Protective Services contacted the Coopers, revealing that the incident could cost them not only custody of the boy, but also their freedom on felony child endangerment charges,” writes Stephen C. Webster of True Slant, who has been following the case.

On page five of the CPS case report, police level the shocking claim that the Coopers are “unsuitable parents” because they teach their children “the government is out to harm them”.

On page six of the report, police accuse the Coopers of being “aggressive to authority” because they will not allow government employees to enter their house without a court order.

Feds Prepare To Use Anarchists To Provoke Tea Party Violence

Paul Joseph Watson-[Prison Planet.com](http://Prison Planet.com)-Friday, April 2, 2010-Given the past history of how so-called “anarchist” groups are so easily infiltrated and provocateured by the authorities to commit meaningless acts of violence that only serve to discredit political causes, we should be alarmed by the possibility that anarchist plans to “crash the tea parties” will present the perfect opportunity for the establishment to create a flashpoint with which to demonize constitutionalists as unruly extremists.

According to leading anarchist website Infoshop News, “On April 15th thousands of right-wingers will attend rallies in cities and towns across the United States. The organizers of this nationwide day of protest call it a tea party. This tea party movement that emerged only a year ago is a coalition of conservatives, anti-Semites, fascists, libertarians, racists, constitutionalists, militia men, gun freaks, homophobes, Ron Paul supporters, Alex Jones conspiracy types and American flag wavers.” (Emphasis added).

In one paragraph, the so-called “anarchists” have regurgitated wholesale the exact same rhetoric that the corporate-owned media, their supposed adversaries, have been spewing ceaselessly for months on end – that anyone who opposes big government (which is what “anarchists” are supposed to do), is a racist and an extremist... The anarchists’ primary reason for wanting to crash Tea Party demonstrations, because “If the tea party movement takes over this country they will really hurt poor people by getting rid of social programs like food stamps, unemployment benefits, disability benefits, student aid, free health care, etc,” is completely at odds with the traditional anarchist political doctrine of extremely limited or no government whatsoever.

As Kurt Nimmo points out, these people are not anarchists at all, they are statist, teenage socialist punks who like to call themselves “workers” but a good portion of whom have probably never worked a day in their life. They make for perfect puppets through which the establishment can manipulate to demonize its real political adversaries.

Apparently the bizarro world of corporate media dominated political propaganda has infected the “anarchists” (at least the Infoshop variety) who now sound like Democrats. Once upon a time, anarchism was a political philosophy that stood in opposition to government.

The term anarchism derives from the Greek anachos, meaning “without rulers.” But apparently the Infoshop strain of anarchist has deviated from the original definition — they now appear to be indistinguishable from state-loving “progressives”. As we have constantly warned, the latter half of April represents the most dangerous time period for when we can expect violence to be staged or provocateured which will instantly be blamed on tea partiers, libertarians and constitutionalists.

Brother Scott,

First, let me tell you how blessed I feel in regard to your reading my email about "junk DNA" in two of your recent teachings. Your voice has the reach to clear up dangerous misconceptions and I'm happy to contribute what I can to your efforts. Feel free to contact me at any time if you have questions on molecular biology and microbiology.

Just as a quick rejoinder, I wasn't surprised to hear about the Boy Scout molestation scandal on your most recent teaching (See below). The founder of the Boy Scouts, the British general Robert Baden-Powell, was a member of the Scottish Rite temple, and probably thought of the Boy Scouts as a recruiting tool for future members. There's a quick introduction to the issue here:

<http://www.pinetreeweb.com/bp-freemasonry.htm>

There's plenty of other disgusting things about Baden-Powell out there, but the connection to Freemasonry is all I need to know. Additionally, the Boys Scouts of America are highly integrated with the Mormons and given how the beginnings of that group are so tightly tied to the Masons, no surprise there, either. I'm not a parent, but I can't see how any Bible-believing Christian could let his or her kids get involved with scouting if he knew just that much about the organization.

Regards,
Clint

Lawsuit claims Boy Scouts coverup of sex abuse
March 20, 2010, Washington Post/Associated Press

<http://www.washingtonpost.com/wp-dyn/content/article/2010/03/19/AR2010031904657.html>

The Boy Scouts of America has long kept an extensive archive of secret documents that chronicle the sexual abuse of young boys by Scout leaders over the years. The "perversion files," a nickname the Boy Scouts are said to have used for the documents, have rarely been seen by the public, but that could change in the coming weeks in a Portland, Ore., courtroom. The attorney for a man who was allegedly molested in the 1980s by a Scout leader has obtained about 1,000 Boy Scouts sex files and is expected to release some of them at a trial that began [on March 17]. The lawyer says the files show the organization has covered up abuse for decades. The trial is significant because the files could offer a rare window into how the organization has responded to sex abuse by Scout leaders. The only other time the documents are thought to have been presented at a trial was in the 1980s in Virginia. Dozens of lawsuits have been filed against the organization over sex abuse allegations, but judges for the most part have either denied requests for the files or the lawsuits have been settled before they went to trial.

Note: Why isn't the leadership of the Boy Scouts being proactive in releasing these files. Do you think they might have something to hide?

Obama Just Got His Private Army

Nancy Matthis American Daughter March 27, 2010 -Remember when Obama said he wanted a “national security force”? Not the national guard, but a civilian one that has not sworn to uphold the Constitution? On July 2, 2008 in a speech in Colorado Springs, Barack Obama called for a police state.
Obama just got his private army...

...And no one seems to have noticed. It is buried in the Senate revisions to the health care bill.

Subtitle C—Increasing the Supply of the Health Care Workforce

Sec. 5210. Establishing a Ready Reserve Corps.

See the Patient Protection Affordable Care Act, page 1312:

Section 203 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 204) is amended to read as follows:

SEC. 203. COMMISSIONED CORPS AND READY RESERVE CORPS.

(a) ESTABLISHMENT—

(1) IN GENERAL.—here shall be in the Service a commissioned Regular Corps and a Ready Reserve Corps for service in time of national emergency.

(2) REQUIREMENT.—All commissioned officers shall be citizens of the United States and shall be appointed without regard to the civil-service laws and compensated without regard to the Classification Act 2 of 1923, as amended.

(3) APPOINTMENT.—Commissioned officers of the Ready Reserve Corps shall be appointed by the President and commissioned officers of the Regular Corps shall be appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.....

(c) PURPOSE AND USE OF READY RESERVE.—

(2) USES.—The Ready Reserve Corps shall—

(A) participate in routine training to meet the general and specific needs of the Commissioned Corps;

(B) be available and ready for involuntary calls to active duty during national emergencies and public health crises, similar to the uniformed service reserve personnel;

(C) be available for backfilling critical positions left vacant during deployment of active duty Commissioned Corps members, as well as for deployment to respond to public health emergencies, both foreign and domestic; and.....

Michelle:

I was very impressed with this guy until the 4th video where he drops his Satanic doctrine bombshell. He is a hard-core Seventh Day Adventist. This man is going to take many to hell as he is totally keying on Sabbath verses Sunday issue as being the main issue end times deception and essentially the main salvation issue. To hard-core SDA's they believe in and teach that Sunday worship is actually equivalent to taking the Mark of the Beast. He even recommends and sells a book on his website called National Sunday Law <http://www.theforerunnerchronicles.com/store/books.html> written by the SDA heretic Jan Marcussen:

*Marcussen is an American, a 5th generation Seventh-day Adventist and was ordained as a minister in 1982. He is the author of several books including Two Months to Live which relates the real-life stories of people who have overcome cancer, Cousin Henry Potter {and the Terrible Time Machine}, an adventure, and a book on marital happiness.*

*Marcussen is best known for his 1983 book National Sunday Law, which has been described as a "condensed version" of Ellen G. White's view in The Great Controversy. 7.8 million copies have been distributed in 19 languages.<sup>[1]</sup> The book gives an interpretation of the prophecies of the biblical books of Daniel and Revelation, and focuses particularly on the Three Angels' Messages of Revelation chapter fourteen.*

He also sells the blasphemous book 'The Great Controversy' written by the founder of the SDA church Ellen White:

*The Great Controversy is a book written by Ellen G. White, one of the founders of the Seventh-day Adventist Church . It describes the "Great Controversy theme" between Jesus and Satan, as played out over the millennia from its start in heaven, to its final end when the world is destroyed and recreated. Regarding the reason for writing the book, the author reported: "In this vision at Lovett's Grove (in 1858), most of the matter of the Great Controversy which I had seen ten years before, was repeated, and I was shown that I must write it out."<sup>[1]</sup> The theme of the original small book was expanded first to a four-volume set of books in 1884 and then to a five-volume set of books in 1888. The final book in each set was entitled The Great Controversy.*
