Subject: Tom Horn & Raiders E-News Journal Concerns

Tom:

I am really confused and alarmed by a trend I am seeing in one of your recent videos and articles you are promoting. You are promoting Catholics in your most recent video (promoting your new book--with the Catholic Priest guy speaking in Latin with the Catholic crucifix--see: <http://www.forbiddengate.com/>) and are also doing so by the articles below. What is going on? Catholicism is leading millions to hell and have butchered more true Christians than any other institution of the devil since Jesus Christ died on the cross. This is a very important matter & I need to know where you stand as I have referred a ton of listeners' your way over the years.

Dealing With The Devil

Although cases of demonic possession have been recorded for centuries, Christopher Haizmann's case was something special. According to available information, Johann Christoph Haizmann was born in Bavaria in 1651. After the death of his father, the destitute painter reportedly entered into a pact with the Devil in 1668 which involved nine years of service to Satan. Haizmann actually claimed to have made two pacts: the first pact being written in ink and the second pact was written in blood a year later. While living in Austria, Haizmann began experiencing terrible seizures on August 19th, 1677. The seizures, which took place in a church, caused Haizmann to be "seized by heavy convulsions and thus brought to confess his bondage". After telling priests about his pact with Satan, he went on a pilgrimage to a monastery at Mariazell, Austria to end his deal. The Mariazell Basilica is still the most important pilgrimage site in Austria and is known for its stunning architecture and religious icons. It must have been a natural choice for someone like Haizmann who wanted to rid himself of a demon. After a round of exorcisms, Haizmann found himself free of the Devil's influence and the blood pact was "miraculously" returned to him. Unfortunately, the seizures began again after Haizmann left the monastery to live with his sister in Vienna. As the seizures worsened (along with convulsions, hallucinations of Christ and the Virgin Mary, and paralysis in his legs), Haizmann confessed that he had a previous contract with Satan. A second pilgrimage to the monastery in May 1678 led to more exorcisms until the other contract with Satan was broken as well. Inspired by his rescue from the Devil's influence, Christoph Haizmann became a Brother Hospitaller and, under his new name of Brother Chrystosomus, he devoted himself to religious works (including artwork) until his death on March 14, 1700. The Brothers Hospitallers of St. John of God are a Roman Catholic order founded in 1572. They are also known commonly as the Fatebenefratelli, meaning "Do-Good Brothers" in Italian.*

The Spirit of Nosferatu and the Children of the Damned

This week some 300 Catholic exorcists flocked to Poland for a week-long congress to examine the current fashion for vampirism the world-over and the apparent connection between this fascination and a surge in demonic possession. The need for such a congress illustrates how so much of the world is experiencing what would have seemed impossible just fifty years ago: an explosion of ancient occultism and wicked fascination with all things paranormal by today's spiritually abandoned public.

Father Rufus Pereira, Roman Catholic priest and exorcist appointed by Pope John Paul II, preaches in 2009. Vampires, the devil's deceit and mental illness are among the hot topics for some 300 exorcists who flocked to Poland this week from as far away as Africa and India for a week-long congress.

Held at Poland's Roman Catholic Jasna Gora monastery, home to the venerated Black Madonna icon, this year's congress "examines the current fashion for vampirism in Europe and the world-over, schizophrenia and other mental disorders as well as the devil's deceit during exorcism," according to the monastery's radio station.

...The Jasna Gora monastery's venerated Black Madonna icon is believed by many Poles to work miracles.

Legend has it that it was painted by the apostle Saint Luke on a table top from the home of the Holy Family, according to the Jasna Gora website. Records suggest the icon arrived in Poland during the 14th century.

Pope Recalls 9/11, Condemns Violence In God's Name

Pope Benedict on Saturday condemned violence in God's name, but said that 10 years after the Sept. 11 attacks, the world still had much to do to address the grievances that can give rise to acts of terrorism. "Once again, it must be unequivocally stated that no circumstances can ever justify acts terrorism," he said in a letter to New York's archbishop, Timothy Dolan, who is also head of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops. Recalling what he called the "brutal assault" on the United States, the pope said: "The tragedy of that day is compounded by the perpetrators' claim to be acting in God's name."

AN OPEN LETTER TO CHRISTIAN LEADERS

Time running out to influence debate on transhumanism

September 14, 2010

by Thomas R. Horn

RaidersNewsNetwork.com

Dear Pastor and Christian Leader,

Brent Waters, Director of the Jerre L. and Mary Joy Stead Center for Ethics and Values has written, "If Christians are to help shape contemporary culture—particularly in a setting in which I fear the posthuman message will prove attractive, if not seductive—then they must offer an alternative and compelling vision; a counter theological discourse so to speak."

Although the Vatican in 2008 issued a limited set of instructions on bioethics primarily dealing with in vitro fertilization and stem cell research (Dignitas Personae or "the Dignity of the Person" [pdf]) and a handful of Christian scientists, policy makers, and conservative academics have hinted in public commentary on the need for a broader, manifesto-like document on the subject, the church as an institution has failed at any concerted effort to focus on the genetics revolution,...

While the Vatican's Dignitas Personae likewise failed to provide instructions on the greater issue of biological enhancement..., its positional paper did provide an important bird's-eye view on the clash developing between traditional morality and the contradictory adoption of transhumanist philosophy by Christian apologists, who likewise have begun to question what it means to be human and whose competing moral vision could ultimately shape the future of society.

Immediately following the release of Dignitas Personae, Catholic scientist William B. Neaves, in an essay for the National Catholic Reporter, reflected the new biblical exegesis...

Christian leaders are either asleep at the wheel or actively engaged in ideological warfare for the mind of a generation whose members today are desperately seeking reasons to believe, despite everything they are being told, that the church remains relevant. To fail this responsibility will be to abdicate to a frightening transhuman vision of the future such as was predicted by theologian and Christian apologist C. S. Lewis in The Abolition of Man. Lewis foresaw the day when transhumanist and scientific reasoning would win out, permanently undoing mankind through altering the species, ultimately reducing Homo sapiens to utilitarian products. Lewis foresaw the progressive abandonment of what we would call "moral law" based on Christian values giving way to “the dead hand of the great planners and conditioners” who would decide what men should biologically become.

Funny you should ask as I just read the very report you referenced where he basically says he was not sure if it was of God or the devil. You can read it for yourself below which is much more manageable than reading his book. I find this extremely alarming as he is literally at the forefront of the "Christians" who are supposedly here to give us the truth about the UFO alien agenda. I have refused to yoke up with his group for years and now it is becoming more and more apparent why I have not done so.

The Story I've Never Told | Prophecy in the News

<http://www.prophecyinthenews.com/the-story-ive-never-told/>

By Gary Stearman on August 11, 2011

The following is a story that I've never publicly related. Except for a handful of people I've told over the last four decades, it has been my secret. Nevertheless, it is a true story that played a large role in the development of my thinking.....

One of my tasks was to supply Cessna dealers across the United States with point-of-sale materials, such as brochures, product information, banners, posters, and films.

It was midsummer in the late 1960s in Wichita, Kansas, and I prepared to take off from the delivery center airfield at Cessna Aircraft to make such a routine trip. Sunday morning – I departed for my first stop, Love Field in Dallas, Texas, about 330 miles south. The trip took a normal and uneventful two hours. I arrived at the Cessna dealership late in the morning, where the dealer and I unloaded about half the materials I had brought for the meetings. Then, a little after noon, I departed Love Field and headed west toward Lubbock, Texas, where I was to meet another Cessna dealer and unload the other half of the supplies for him. This leg of my flight, I thought, would be as ordinary as the first.

Climbing to a cruise altitude of 6,500 feet, and leveling off, I relaxed, expecting a 300-mile trip of about an hour and forty-five minutes. Routinely monitoring my nav-com and right on schedule, I was (as always) enjoying my flight. The air was smooth and cool. Then, without warning, a low-voltage warning flashed on my instrument panel!

My first reaction was simple annoyance: This had started as a perfect flight, but now I had to manage a failure. I was somewhat disgusted; this was after all, a brand-new airplane. I noted that the electrical system voltage was steadily dropping and after trying every alternative and discovering that there was no cure, I took one last reading on my heading and position, then shut down the entire electrical system. On an airplane, you can do that, because the engine has its own separate ignition system.

I believed that by doing this, I could save battery power till I got to Lubbock, then turn it back on in time to call the tower and make my landing. Again, I settled down, expecting the remaining hour to be uneventful. How wrong I was!

At this point, I would remind you that all electrical power was shut down, including of course, the radios. Yet, at that moment, I heard a crisp, clear voice that sounded just like a tour guide. It said, "If you look to your left, you'll see a UFO." My instant reaction was: "Now, that's the stupidest thing I've ever heard. I'm not gonna look to my left!"

And I didn't. Facing forward, I set my jaw and determined to continue as before.

But then it hit me: Although the radios were off, I had heard a clear voice. It was then that I decided for sure I was not going to look to my left!

Then, for the second time, loudly and clearly, the voice said (and I really couldn't tell where it was coming from), "If you look to your left, you'll see a UFO." Its intonation sounded just like a tour guide, and I laughed out loud. Then, curiosity finally got the best of me and I couldn't stop myself from looking to my left.

And there, slightly below my altitude, and a mile or two away, was a bright light. I watched it for a good while. It was matching my speed and direction. As we continued for a few minutes, it appeared to be slowly drawing closer to me.....We flew on together for a few minutes more, still on merging courses, drawing ever closer to each other. It looked like we'd get to Lubbock at about the same time. Then, something startling happened. We both flew under a high, solid cloud deck that was a few thousand feet above us. Now, at virtually the same moment, we had both flown into shadow. But amazingly, the light that came from this mystery aircraft was as bright as it had been in the sun. It was generating its own light! It was brilliant! Suddenly, I believed the voice I'd heard fifteen minutes ago. It was a UFO!....

*Its corrugations were spaced about three feet apart. And here it was, flying with me in close formation about seventy-five feet off my left wing. Then, as unbelievable as it may sound, I felt something like waves of energy coming off this thing. I felt like I was being “probed” or “scanned” ... that it literally knew what I was thinking! And I wasn't at all bothered by this. Quite the opposite, I felt an elation I've never experienced, either before or since.

I felt as though something terrifically good and beneficial was happening to me, something on the order of a rescue. Remember, I had entered into this situation with an electrical emergency.

I was magnetically drawn to this beautiful machine ... if one can call it a machine. For several minutes, we flew along together. But as I looked, I wanted to get closer to it, to see how it was built. So I nudged the controls, causing my plane to slip stealthily closer to this thing ... seventy feet ... sixty-five feet ... sixty feet ... and I felt a magnificent connection with the giant ship ... as though it was concerned about my condition. I perceived it as a gracious benefactor, though at the moment, I didn't connect its actions with my electrical failure.

Now, in the distance, it still gleamed with a luminous silver light, and once again, flew along with me as we both headed for Lubbock, which was now less than twenty miles away! It seemed that we had covered what should have been an hour's flight in about ten minutes!

And here, the time had arrived to see whether my earlier strategy had worked. I reactivated the electrical system, and yes, there was enough battery power left to call Lubbock tower, and to deploy the flaps for a landing, all of which turned out to be routine. Rolling southward, I slowed and departed the runway in a left turn and taxied up to the Cessna dealership.

And through my windshield, looking back toward the east, about ten miles away, was the ship, still hovering in the distance, absolutely still. After shutdown, I walked into the dealership in something of a daze, where I met the dealer and mumbled something about having seen a UFO on my way.

There was nothing subtle about his reply: “I don't believe in those things!” I quietly resolved that I would never mention this to anyone else. Furthermore, he was angry: “You were supposed to be here earlier! What happened?” I told him about the electrical failure and it somewhat calmed him down. It didn't occur to me until years later that I had left Dallas just after noon on a trip that should have taken less than two hours. Now, it was after six o'clock ... perhaps closer to seven. This man had waited on me all afternoon ... on a Sunday! But he was sympathetic after he heard about my emergency.

Another thing didn't register with me until years later: I had refueled in Dallas, giving me enough fuel for four or five hours of flying time at the very most. I had landed over six hours later, and still had half my fuel left! But I just didn't think about it; it didn't cross my mind that there was anything strange about this.

I had intended to fly back to Wichita that evening after dropping off the rest of the load. But now, the airplane was in the shop with electrical problems, and I was forced to stay overnight.

*The next morning ... bright and early ... the dealer picked me up and we headed for the airport to see what they had found wrong with my aircraft. Needless to say, I was quite anxious to fix the problem and head back home to Wichita and the factory. The shop foreman approached us as we entered. He was in an excited state as he almost shouted, “You ain't gonna believe what we found!”

And he proceeded to show us the brand new V-belt that had fallen off the alternator drive and ended up in the bottom of the cowling. There was not a mark on it. It was factory new. And the pulleys from which it had escaped were still tensioned and safety wired. It was impossible for the belt to have fallen off in this way. Five men, including an FAA inspector, stood around marveling at the sight. At the very least, the belt should have been scarred. Most likely it would have broken. But it was pristine, and what's more, they had to loosen the fittings to replace it. It couldn't have fallen off the engine.

Of course, my mind was racing in a different direction: What had really happened? Why had the flying disc come alongside me at a critical moment? Had "they" actually caused that critical moment? Of course, I didn't utter a word about a UFO to any of those present on that Monday morning. I would have been laughed out of the hangar!

And so, after re-installing the drive belt, test-running the engine and discovering a healthy system voltage, it was pronounced airworthy. I took off and headed for Wichita. A little over two hours later, I landed, went back to the office and essentially kept my mouth closed ... to this day. Over the last 42 years, I've told maybe four or five people about the incident ... more or less swearing them to secrecy in the process.

I have many questions. Was the UFO good or evil? Was it from outer space or inner space; perhaps another dimension? Was it angelic or demonic? Did it cause the failure of my electrical system, or did something else cause the calamity, and the UFO came to my aid? One thing is certain: I felt that the UFO had good intentions; contact with it had been both exhilarating and positive. I was disappointed when it stayed behind as I went on to land.

I must tell you that at that time, I had not yet given my life to Christ. And I was more aware than most people of the entire UFO phenomenon. This encounter, of course, had brought me to an entirely new level of perception. It opened my mind to the absolute reality of beings who have what appears to be a technology that's eons ahead of ours.

In my own personal case, however, many questions remain. I continue to believe that I was rescued; I would like to believe that the beautiful ship that came alongside me was on a mission to save me from a possible crash.

But I don't exclude the possibility that the ship was demonic, representing a mission far beyond my ability to understand. I just can't say. I do know, however, that the Spirit of the Lord spoke clearly to me in the period that followed.

Afterward, I came, not only to saving faith in Christ, but to a consciousness that we are living in the last days, said by our Lord to resemble the days when fallen angels began to traffic among men. For eons, there has been a heavenly battle raging. Good and evil angels defend territories and causes that are far beyond our perception.

Occasionally, they penetrate the dimensional barriers and for a moment, we see them....

how he was not a christian at the time. Well that tells you something right there. When the Lord Jesus Christ pulled me from the pit of hell 16 years ago that was the first thing that the Holy Spirit taught me was that UFOs/aliens were from the pit of hell. He honestly believes it was from God. How can he say he loves the Lord and believe in that lie. I just don't understand. I don't know, it's like you say what Gods word says in 2 Thes. 2:11. It scares me for all those who will believe what he will say. He is actually having huge conferences and speaking on this very subject. Shame on him!! I will let you know if I do hear anymore about it..

Comment: Hi Dr Scott.

Re - Tom Horn.

I have often heard Mr. Tom Horn/Raiders News Network (as well as Steve Quayle) referring people to his "very good friend" David Flynn.

Flynn is know as Paracelsus 2012 on YouTube.

Paracelsus was a 15th century alchemist /occultist.

After researching Flynn (whom Mr.Horn exalts and recommends)

It appears Flynn has very strange links to Rosacrucianism /Freemasonry.

Like Mr. Horn didnt know that !!

This gives me more proof that the " truth movement" is controlled and "steered" by the satanic opposition.

God Bless you all.

Louis.

Comment: So far every reference I have seen him (David Flynn) reference (regarding this book) were high level occultists (see below). Just way too many red flags. We are to: Flee all appearance of evil & to have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness but rather to reprove them.

Flynn is carrying on the work of all these high level occults that he is referencing. It is scary stuff. I emailed a prominent ministry (who has been on my email list for years and is promoting Flynn's book) and he basically told me that what all these high level occultists Flynn is referencing (see below); that God is now showing Flynn the missing keys to their research to actually bring forth good from all this information. The problem is we have no Biblical precedence for the Lord Jesus Christ ever telling us to operate this way, actually quite the contrary according to Scripture.

Ephesians 5:11, 13-16: "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, Redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

The 1828 Noah Webster Dictionary defines:

Reprove: To blame, to convince of a fault, or to make it manifest, to excite a sense of guilt.

Circumspectly: Cautiously; with watchfulness every way; with attention to guard against surprise or danger.

Psalm 97:10: "Ye that love the LORD, hate evil..."

Jeremiah 48:10: "Cursed be he that doeth the work of the LORD deceitfully..."

Matthew 24:24: "...if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect."

II Corinthians 2:11: "Lest Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices."

Colosians 2:8: "Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ."

Flynn is in big trouble with God and I really believe he needs to get saved, as I really have never seen any evidence of salvation when I have watched his talks (which I have been doing for years). I may end up having to do a study on this. God bless!

Next it would be important to look at the definition of the words that are synonymous with Flynn's teachings (see below). The essence of all these words boil down to: Hidden knowledge reserved only for the practitioners of their respective cults. This is the oldest recruiting tool in the book to get people involved in cults or a cult-like belief system. It is the basis for virtually all false religions. This is very dangerous. It is the same old lie that Satan used on Eve in the Garden of Eden: As he promised her hidden knowledge and also godhood. Stick with the Word of God (the King James Bible) and never put your trust in any man only the Bible.

"Thus saith the LORD; Cursed be the man that trusteth in man, Jeremiah 17:5: and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the LORD."

Flynn has totally built his theories on the back of high level occults and admits that. See my David Flynn response below these definitions.

NOUN: Hidden knowledge

The doctrines of certain pre-Christian pagan, Jewish and pseudo-Christian sects that valued the revealed knowledge of God and of the origin and end of the human race as a means to attain redemption for the spiritual element in humans....

Alchemy is an ancient tradition, the primary objective of which was the creation of the mythical "philosopher's stone," which was said to be capable of turning base metals into gold or silver, and also act as an elixir of life that would confer youth and immortality upon its user. However, alchemy also included various non-scientific mythological, religious, and spiritual concepts, theories and practices.

In Temple at the Center of Time, Flynn follows the trail left by Issac Newton and others who sought the 'ancient wisdom' of men like Plato, Pythagoras, and King Solomon.

David Flynn's new hit book, the "Temple At The Center Of Time," has been named the No. 1 pick among best-sellers at Shop.WND.com this week for tackling some of the biggest mysteries in Christianity: the location of the Ark of the Covenant, the significance of the Temple Mount and others.

The new book, which is scheduled for its official release soon, targets Newton's Bible Codex, which has been addressed in other books, but never explained.

Product Description

A belief that the ancients held unusual scientific knowledge, of which only fragments remain today, was held by many great philosophers and scientists who participated in the "scientific revolution". Though research by these men led to great discovery, many were convinced that they were merely scratching the surface of an immense but lost pristine knowledge somehow reflected in the architecture and remains of ancient civilizations. In "Temple at the Center of Time Investigations of Sacred Dimension, Revealed in Prophecy, the Temple of Jerusalem, and the Ark of the Covenant, from the works of Isaac Newton", David Flynn uncovers what is sure to be heralded as one of the greatest discoveries of all time. Since the time of Newton, no one has revealed the true form and nature of the original knowledge, or from whence it came until now. For the first time in history, "Temple at the Center of Time" uncovers what Newton was looking for and, in so doing, proves that pivotal events in history are unquestionably connected in time and space to Jerusalem. Newton didn't know it. The key was right in front of him.

About the Author

Since 1993, David Flynn has posted original and groundbreaking research of ancient mysteries, "illuminated" fraternities, and Bible prophecy on his famous Watcher Website.

Isaac Newton's Occult Studies

Encyclopedia >

“The unpublished work of Isaac Newton included much that would now be classified as occult studies. He worked extensively outside the strict bounds of science and mathematics, particularly on chronology, alchemy, and Biblical interpretation (especially of the Apocalypse). Much of his writing on alchemy may have been lost in a fire in his laboratory, so the true extent of his work in this area may have been larger than is currently known. He also suffered a 'nervous breakdown' during his period of alchemical work, which is thought by some due to the psychological transformation that alchemy originally was designed to induce, though there is also speculation it may have been some form of chemical poisoning. Sir Isaac Newton was an English physicist, mathematician, astronomer, philosopher, and alchemist... // Alchemy is an early protoscientific practice combining elements of chemistry, physics, astrology, art, semiotics, metallurgy, medicine, and mysticism. ...

Isaac Newton (1643 – 1727), the noted British scientist and mathematician, wrote many works that would now be classified as occult studies.

These occult works explored chronology, alchemy, and Biblical interpretation (especially of the Apocalypse).

Newton's scientific work may have been of lesser personal importance to him, as he placed emphasis on rediscovering the occult wisdom of the ancients. After purchasing and studying Newton's alchemical works in 1942, economist John Maynard Keynes, for example, opined that "Newton was not the first of the age of reason, he was the last of the magicians."

Newton & The Rosicrucians

Perhaps the secret society which most influenced Isaac Newton were the Rosicrucians.^[21] The Rosicrucian movement still would have a profound influence upon Newton, particularly in regard to his alchemical work and philosophical thought.

The Rosicrucian belief in being specially chosen for the ability to communicate with angels or spirits is echoed in Newton's prophetic beliefs. Additionally, the Rosicrucians proclaimed to have the ability to live forever through the use of the elixer vitae and the ability to produce limitless amounts of gold from the use of The Philosopher's Stone, which they claimed to have in their possession. Like Newton, the Rosicrucians were deeply religious, avowedly Christian, anti-Catholic, and highly politicised. Isaac Newton would have a deep interest in not just their alchemical pursuits, but also their belief in esoteric truths of the ancient past and the belief in enlightened individuals with the ability to gain insight into nature, the physical universe, and the spiritual realm.^[21]

At the time of his death, Isaac Newton had 169 books on the topic of alchemy in his personal library, and was believed to have considerably more books on this topic during his Cambridge years, though he may have sold them before moving to London in 1696. For its time, his was considered one of the finest alchemical libraries in the world.

Newton & Freemasonry

There is no verifiable record of Newton being a Freemason.^[23] Despite this lack of evidence, Isaac Newton is still frequently identified as being a member of several early Masonic Lodges including the Grand Lodge of England. There is currently a Freemason Lodge operating at Cambridge University named The Isaac Newton University Lodge.^[24]

Newton's membership of The Royal Society and the fact that many Royal Society members have been identified as early Freemasons has lead many to believe Newton was a Mason himself. It is clear that Newton was deeply interested in architecture, sacred geometry, and the structure of the Temple of Solomon, a subject that plays an important role in early Masonic mythology..^[23]

Famous Freemason: Isaac Newton Lodge, No. 859, Cambridge.

England became a Satanic power base through the combined effect of the Scottish Templar/Freemasons; the spread of the spirit-conjuring Hermetic-Kabbalist teachings of Cornelius Agrippa, the Venetian Franciscan monk Francisco Giorgi, Giordano Bruno, and John Dee; as well as through the Aristotelian materialistic teachings of atheistic Venetian scholar Paolo Sarpi that inspired (and were plagiarized by) Francis Bacon and Thomas Hobbes, and later John Locke and Isaac Newton.

After the Church was deliberately torn apart by the successful schemes of these unholy beings, and after Europe was ravaged by seemingly never-ending religious warfare, the Rosicrucian movement came on the scene in the early 1600s. It began with documents that spoke of a secret movement that was working to establish a peaceful New World Order of love and religious tolerance. The Rosicrucian movement pretended to acknowledge Christianity as the true faith (or a true faith), but underneath it was infused with pagan hermetic and kabbalistic symbolism and imagery. Its roots were undoubtedly with the spirit-conjurers at the head of the Satanic heirarchy, with whom Francis Bacon was intimately involved (for instance his New Atlantis). Rosicrucianism was but one of many examples of a bogus solution being offered for a manufactured crisis.
