Changing of the guard

by Jared Dyson March 17, 2024 in Devotionals

Moses my servant is dead; now therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Israel.— Joshua 1:2

On a few occasions, I had the opportunity to witness the changing of the guards at Arlington National Cemetery. Twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier is guarded. At least once per hour, the guard is changed.

It is an amazing ceremony to watch given the rich history. An intense focus is placed on an immaculate ceremony. While the uniforms appear perfect and the soldiers appear perfect, it would be impossible for one soldier to stand guard for extended periods of time. The heat and cold, as well as the intense pressure they face for perfection, create a need for the guard to change. In other words, the guard cannot last forever.

Such was the case of Moses. Moses had led for quite some time, but Moses had died. The time had come to change the guard of leaders, and it was Joshua's time. Whether he felt ready or not, it was his time. God wanted to use him.

There are times in each of our lives when God is ready to use us as well. Many Christian leaders of yesterday are gone. God is looking for those who are willing to serve Him and follow Him in our day. Whether we are ready or not, God is ready to use us!

The question is if we will submit to God and let Him use us. He has a plan and a purpose for us. Our world needs Christians who are willing to stand up for truth and lead others to God. If this is your time, will you let God use you?

Jonah & the Eclipse of Ancient Nineveh

by Ted Wright | Aug 17, 2017 | An Ancient Lesson for a Modern World Stars & Planets For Signs & Seasons

On August 21, 2017 millions of people across America witnessed a total eclipse of the sun in which daylight was turned to complete darkness. To those who were able to witness it, it was an incredible event that they will not soon forget. Over 2700 years ago another eclipse appeared over the skies of ancient Assyria, and it may have aided the ancient city of Nineveh to turn to God in repentance. Using methods of modern astronomy, history and archaeology we now may be able to pinpoint an exact date for the Old Testament prophet, Jonah and his preaching to ancient Nineveh.

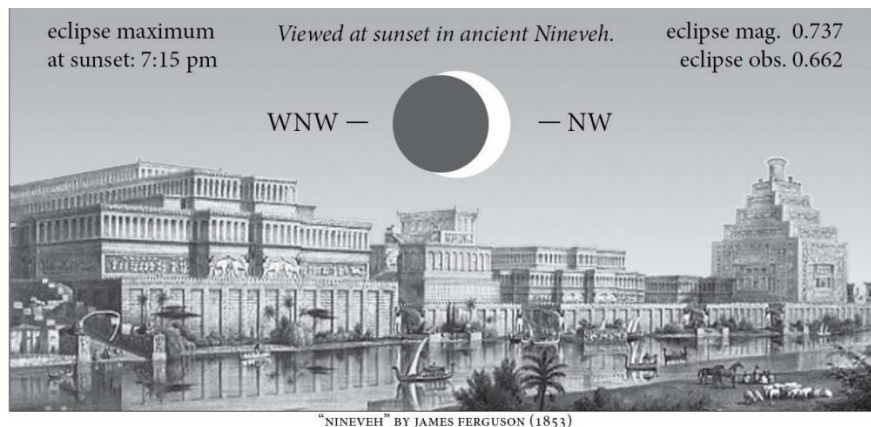

One of the biggest questions that runs throughout Biblical Archaeology (or Near Eastern Archaeology), is the question of timing. Timing is everything, as the title of William Dever’s book states: What Did the Biblical Writers Know, and When Did They Know It? Indeed, these are the questions which cut to the heart of ancient Biblical history! Chronology, or timing is where most controversies lie in debates on archaeology and the Bible.

<<Stele from Assyrian King Adad-nirari II (911-891 BC). First king of the Neo-Assyrian Dynasty (Wikipedia)

The ancient neo-Assyrian empire existed between 911 and 612 B.C., and the first king to reign during that period was Adad-nirari II (911-891 B.C.). Seven generations later, after the reign of Adad-nirari III (810-783 B.C.), the nation was in disarray both internally and abroad. There was also civil unrest and war within her own borders. At this time the OT kings of Israel, Jeroboam II and Uzziah of Judah regained territories that had been previously lost [6].

It was during the time of external national upheaval in Assyria that Jonah likely undertook his preaching mission to Nineveh. It seems that with God the timing was flawless. Old Testament scholar, Dr. Eugene H. Merrill, states: Given these chronological limits, the most likely time for the mission of Jonah to Nineveh was during the reign of Assur-dan III (722-755 BC) ...In addition [to being in political upheaval], plague and famine struck repeatedly until the empire was left impoverished and in total disorder. This would have been an ideal time for Jonah to deliver his message of judgement and of the universal redemptive program of the God of Israel. Assyria's own pantheon and cult had failed miserably [7]. <<Kind of starting to sound like America

What makes the Jonah story even more remarkable is not only the famous episode of him being swallowed by a great fish (Jon. 1:17-2:1-10), but also that he, a foreigner, came to Nineveh, exhorted them to repent and turn to the God of Israel, and they did. Many unbelieving interpreters and scholars have proposed that because of these factors, the story should not be taken as literally true. However, conservative interpreters see the events in the book of Jonah as historically accurate. D.J. Wiseman writes: Until comparatively recent times this line of interpretation was followed by most Jewish and Christian scholars. The latter reinforced their belief in the historical nature of the narrative from the emphasis placed by Jesus Christ on the 'sign of Jonah' as prefiguring his own death and resurrection and on the repentance of the men of Nineveh in the face of Jonah's preaching as condemning the unbelief of Christ's own day (Mt. 12:39-41; Lk. 11:29-30). His assertion that 'now one greater than Jonah is here' would carry little conviction if the men of Nineveh were mythical [8].

On June 15, 763 BC ancient Nineveh witnessed a full solar eclipse [9]. The astronomical calculations of this date are certain.

Note: Nineveh is the oldest and most-populous city of the ancient Assyrian empire, situated on the east bank of the Tigris River and encircled by the modern city of Mosul, Iraq.

Yearly & Monthly weather - Mosul, Iraq

www.weather-atlas.com/en/iraq/mosul-climate

High temperatures define the summer months in Mosul from June to August, averaging between 39.2°C (102.6°F) and 42.9°C (109.2°F).

Jon 4:6 And the LORD God prepared a gourd, and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah was exceeding glad of the gourd.

Jon 4:7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

Jon 4:8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise, that God prepared a vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, *It is better for me to die than to live.

Relevant to the Jonah story and the repentance of Nineveh and the king, is the role that eclipses played in ancient Mesopotamia and in particular, Assyrian culture. Louise Lerner writes:

To ancient Mesopotamians, eclipses portended misfortune, and their dramatic manifestations constituted omens of enough significance to affect the entire land or the king himself. Even a partial eclipse could be as interesting—if not more so—than a full eclipse. Depending on the quadrant of the sun or moon obscured, misfortune was directed toward lands in the north, south, east or west. Because the moon was sometimes compared to a ‘crown,’ lunar eclipses especially foretold the deaths of kings [10].

When one evaluates the Assyrian context of the Jonah story, all of the pieces of the puzzle fall into place, and the story assumes a strong place in history.

Jon 3:4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

Jon 3:5 So the people of Nineveh believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

Jon 3:6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes.

Assyriologist D.J. Wiseman explains:

Jonah's prophecy or message 'In forty days Nineveh will be overthrown' (3:4) reads like...a prediction, of a type readily understandable to the Assyrians. Since it 'affected' the king (3:6)...and was used of divine judgment, cf. Job 4:5; Jer. 51:9), he or his message would be brought to the king. The fact that the latter sat on the throne (3:6) may also indicate that the prophet was received in official audience. The immediate response shows clearly that the message was taken as affecting not only the city of Nineveh, as was obvious from the statement, but also the king and his position [11].

Jon 3:7 And he caused it to be proclaimed and published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water:

Jon 3:8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands.

Jon 3:9 Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?

Jon 3:10 And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

When the Pharisees asked Jesus for a sign that He was indeed Messiah, He responded this way:

The Pharisees and Sadducees came to Jesus and tested him by asking him to show them a sign from heaven. He replied, "When evening comes, you say, 'It will be fair weather, for the sky is red,' and in the morning, 'Today it will be stormy, for the sky is red and overcast.' You know how to interpret the appearance of the sky, but you cannot interpret the signs of the times. A wicked and adulterous generation looks for a sign, but none will be given it except the sign of Jonah – (Matthew 16:1-4)

Knowing now that a total solar eclipse foreshadowed Jonah's preaching to ancient Nineveh on June 15, 763 B.C., it is tempting to note the parallels of Nineveh and our own country. Internal and external upheavals and civil unrest threatened them as well as us, and the need of national repentance and turning to God for mercy has never been greater.

Like Nineveh of old, may the solar eclipse of 2017 be a reminder for us as a nation to repent of our national and personal sins, and turn to God through His Son Jesus Christ.

Who can tell if God will turn and relent, and turn away from His fierce anger, so that we may not perish? (Jonah 3:9)

Mat 12:38 Then certain of the scribes and of the Pharisees answered, saying, Master, we would see a sign from thee.

I don't know anything about the man, but did really like and appreciate the content of the video.

I found this interesting in regards to numbers. (I'm sure I'm not the first person to see this.)

April 8, is the 98 day of the year. It is the 99th day in a LEAP YEAR. This is a LEAP YEAR.

$9+9=18$ there is your 6+6+6.

$9 \times 11 = 99$ (There is your "9 11" Order out of Chaos.)

Also, the Path of Totality (See photo) times for the eclipse is 4 minutes and 14 seconds. ($4+14=18$) There is your 6+6+6 again.

We also know that a lot of witchcraft will be going on that day and at the end of April for the Grand Climax.

There will definitely be a lot we need to pray and fast about during this time.

Yes, I agree, people seriously need to repent. Just not out of fear alone, but sincerely, examining themselves, wanting to change and in the process be set free from the unseen chains that bind them and the demons that are blinding them, the same demons they sadly often want!

The veil is clearly lifting, these luke warm Christians and everyone else can only live in denial, denial, denial for so long then reality will hit....

Coincidence? –The Horned Green ‘Devil Comet’ / Comet 12P/Pons-Brooks’ will be visible and will be closest to the earth during the April 8th 2024 total solar eclipse in America--It’s rare that a bright comet is near the Sun during a total solar eclipse

On April 8, 2024, all eyes will be on the eclipsed Sun during totality. After all, it’s the main attraction.

But as the Sun is blotted out, darkness will fall during the day, rendering more than just the solar corona visible in the sky. Stars and planets will appear, lighting up amid the false twilight that occurs during a total eclipse. Several of the brightest stars and planets will come into view — and one special visitor: Comet 12P/Pons-Brooks

That's right. Bring your binoculars along during the total solar eclipse on April 8, 2024, and you might be able to catch a comet hovering in the sky near the eclipsed Sun.

Why is Pons-Brooks being called the Devil Comet at all? Well, in late July 2023, the comet underwent an outburst, blowing off a bunch of gas and dust and brightening by about 100 times, jumping overnight from magnitude 17 to magnitude 12.

That outburst caused the coma to distort into a horseshoe or horned shape, with a dark center and bright wings or points. Hence, many media outlets nicknamed it the Devil Comet.

So why does this comet, a traveler through our solar system since the 1st century, suddenly transform into a diabolical spectacle? This phenomenon has left scientists both intrigued and puzzled. How does a peaceful celestial body undergo a dramatic transformation, intensifying its brightness by 100 times overnight and morphing itself into a sinister, horned shape.
