Ephesians 5:11, 13-16: "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them. But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light: for whatsoever doth make manifest is light. Wherefore he saith, Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light. See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, Redeeming the time, because the days are evil."

The 1828 Noah Webster Dictionary defines:

Reprove: To blame, to convince of a fault, or to make it manifest, to excite a sense of guilt.

Circumspectly: Cautiously; with watchfulness every way; with attention to guard against surprise or danger.

Matthew 24:24: "...if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect."

II Corinthians 2:11: "Lest Satan should get an advantage of us: for we are not ignorant of his devices."

II Chronicles 7:14: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Poisonings from E-Cigarettes and Synthetic Pot Are Surging Among the Youth

May 28, 2014 | The gradual demise of traditional cigarettes has sparked some new health concerns related to the rising popularity of electronic cigarettes, as well as new "designer drugs" like synthetic cannabis. Designer drugs are synthetic analogs of illegal or prohibited drugs, devised to circumvent drug laws.

The dangers of e-cigs may not be as obvious as those of traditional smokes, but according to CDC, accidental poisonings are soaring, most notably among small children. More than half of the poisonings have been occurring in children age five and younger.<sup>1</sup>

E-cigarettes may be even more toxic than traditional cigarettes—in fact, under certain circumstances they can be downright deadly. The e-cig liquid is absorbed into your system much more quickly than tobacco smoke, even after dilution.

For children to be poisoned by a traditional cigarette, they must eat one. But for e-cigs, all it takes is just touching the liquid, as the chemicals are readily absorbed through their skin and even their eyes. The toxic effects of synthetic cannabis are also proving deadly.

One of the reasons e-cigarettes and synthetic cannabis are causing so many poisonings is that they are unnatural—synthesized in a lab—and loaded with heavy metals, solvents, and a hodgepodge of toxic chemicals.

There is no end to the potentially deadly combinations of laboratory-fabricated chemicals in synthetic marijuana. Various versions are being imported, mostly from Asia, under the guise of potpourri, herbal incense, and even "plant food."

There are so many versions that the US Department of Agriculture (USDA) can't keep up with them. Every time one chemical is banned, the "cooks" just substitute another, none of which have been safety tested of course. Many are causing severe, disabling, and even fatal reactions.

Teens are freely and unrestrictedly purchasing these designer drugs from convenience stores and gas stations. Designer drug makers care nothing about safety. They're simply capitalizing on your teen's curiosity about getting high, compounded by his natural feelings of invincibility. And why should these drug pushers care? They have no liability.

Instead of lighting up, e-cigarettes work by a mechanism that heats up a liquid—typically containing nicotine, flavoring agents, and solvents—which turns into a vapor that you inhale and exhale. This is called "vaping." In spite of industry's claims that e-cigarette vapors are harmless, testing has revealed toxic metal nanoparticles in these aerosols.

One of the problems unique to e-cigarettes is how easy it is for anyone to smoke them—and in the process, expose you to secondhand fumes. In most offices, you can just vape away at your desk—no need to trek outside to the nearest smoking area. Some people are vaping at work all day long. If the fumes were truly only "water vapor" as the manufacturers would have you believe, then this wouldn't be an issue... but they aren't just water vapor. According to Tim McAfee of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC):<sup>2</sup>

"We just don't know what's in them, and we don't know how much of what's in them would get out into the environment — but the assumption would be that it would."

E-cig vapor has been shown to contain tin, copper, nickel, and silver silicate beads.<sup>3</sup> In some cases, the levels are greater than what you might be exposed to from smoking a conventional cigarette.

Breathing metal nanoparticles has additional risks because they can more easily enter your bloodstream and body tissues, as their microscopic size allows them to better evade your body's natural defenses. They also carry the potential for harming your developing fetus or newborn baby.<sup>4</sup>

According to Americans for Nonsmokers' Rights (ANR), secondhand e-cigarette aerosol contains at least 10 chemicals identified on California's Proposition 65 list of carcinogens and reproductive toxins, listed in the table below. FDA scientists have also found measurable amounts of propylene glycol, diethylene glycol, and carcinogenic tobacco-specific nitrosamines.<sup>5, 6</sup>

Acetaldehyde	Benzene
Cadmium	Formaldehyde
Isoprene	Lead
Nickel	Nicotine
N-Nitrosornicotine	Toluene

Just One Teaspoon of E-Cigarette Fluid May Be Enough to KILL Your Child. The toxicity of e-vapor pales in comparison to the toxicity of the cartridge liquid, which contains highly concentrated liquid nicotine in a cocktail of flavorings, colorings, and solvents, proven to be neurotoxic. Tiny amounts, whether ingested orally or absorbed through your skin, can cause vomiting, seizures, or even death.

Just one teaspoon of even highly diluted e-cigarette liquid can kill a small child.

Dr. Richard Clark, toxicology professor and medical director of the California Poison Control System, calls nicotine "probably the most toxic plant chemical ever discovered."<sup>7</sup> Yet, believe it or not, you can freely buy this stimulant by the vial, gallon, or even by the barrel! One estimate is that between one and two million liters of e-fluid will be sold in the US this year. According to the New York Times:<sup>8</sup>

"Reports of accidental poisonings, notably among children, are soaring. Nationwide, the number of poisoning cases linked to e-liquids jumped to 1,351 in 2013, a 300 percent increase from 2012, and the number is on pace to double this year, according to information from the National Poison Data System. Of the cases in 2013, 365 were referred to hospitals, triple the previous year's number."

The nicotine levels in e-liquids vary. According to Dr. Cantrell from California poison control, most range between 1.8 percent and 2.4 percent, concentrations that can cause sickness, but rarely death, in children. But higher concentrations, like 10 percent or even 7.2 percent, are widely available on the Internet. At those levels, a lethal dose for an adult would be less than one tablespoon.<sup>9</sup>

Many of the chemicals in e-cigarettes are known to cause respiratory distress and disease. Indeed, this is what many people who have inhaled e-cig vapors are reporting—trouble breathing, cough, sore throat, chest pain, and allergic reactions such as itchiness and swelling of the lips. Chest pain and cardiovascular problems have also been reported.<sup>10</sup> One person described an electronic cigarette blowing up in her mouth, and other users had similar complaints about the devices "overheating." One individual complained the e-cig turned her taste buds black.

Electronic cigarettes are now a two billion dollar per year industry. According to CDC data, e-cig use doubled among US middle and high school students between 2011 and 2012. One in five "non-smoking" high school students is potentially becoming addicted to nicotine through e-cigarettes. Unlike nicotine gums and patches, e-cigs and their ingredients are not regulated. There are no warning labels or age restrictions. Comment: Just one more way Satan is trying to kill and defile the youth and humanity in general. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has been slow to impose regulations, but on April 24, 2014, they finally announced a move in this direction. If finalized, the rule would impose the following restrictions:<sup>11</sup>

- Banning the sale of e-cigs to minors
- Prohibiting distribution of free samples
- Banning e-cigs in vending machines, except in places that never admit young people
- Requiring e-cigs to carry warning labels about nicotine
- Requiring e-cig manufacturers to disclose ingredients in their products

Fortunately, with the FDA dragging its feet, escalating adverse reactions have led many local boards, universities, businesses, and state governments to begin taking steps to protect the public from the dangers of e-cigarettes. Some countries have banned e-cigs entirely, including Australia, Canada, Israel, and Mexico.<sup>13</sup>

But the marketing of e-cigarettes is an issue of its own. Reminiscent of tobacco's early years, e-cig marketers are making vaping look cool and glamorous, even sophisticated. The rising popularity with teens is creating a whole new source of nicotine addiction—in addition to the other health hazards already mentioned.

Yet, manufacturers deny that they are marketing to children. Are we seriously supposed to believe that e-cig manufacturers are not targeting children with flavors like bubble gum, cherry blast, and Gummy Bear?<sup>14</sup> The proposed FDA restrictions do nothing to restrict how e-cigs are marketed, or banning flavors that attract young people... like bees to honey.

In spite of the health risks reported by both CDC and the ER docs who've had to pick up the pieces, the American Council on Science and Health (ACSH)<sup>15</sup> remains an enthusiastic supporter of smokeless tobacco products, calling the risks "exaggerated (by mainstream media), irresponsible, harmful and malicious." However, please note that the ACSH is an agenda-driven PR firm disguised as a science organization, heavily funded by industry, with vaccine industrialist Paul Offit as its board trustee.<sup>16</sup>

AVOID Synthetic Marijuana—It Can Be Deadly!

Spice, Black Mamba, K2, MOJO, White Widow. These are all street names for synthetic cannabis (synthetic marijuana or "fake pot"), virtually unheard of five years ago but now sold widely in stores with little fear of prosecution. Introduced in 2009, this synthetic version of cannabis bears little resemblance regular marijuana and has dramatically different effects on your body. It is manufactured to produce a "high" similar to marijuana, but instead of high, people are finding themselves on a bad trip to the ICU, permanently brain damaged, or even dead.

According to a recent Time Magazine feature, synthetic marijuana is the second most popular drug among teens and young adults, behind pot itself.<sup>17</sup> Most people don't realize how dangerous synthetic marijuana can be. The synthetic powder is mixed in a lab and shipped to the US, where retailers spray it onto a leaf—often an herb or a spice—that can be smoked, just like pot. It binds to cannabis receptors in your body up to 1,000 times more strongly than real marijuana, as well as producing gripping effects on serotonin and other receptors in your brain. You really can't overdose on real pot, but you CAN overdose on synthetic versions—and it doesn't take very much.

In recent weeks, more than 100 people were treated in Louisiana emergency rooms after smoking synthetic cannabis products, many suffering life-threatening reactions—so many that the state of Louisiana recently banned the sale and use of eight of them.<sup>18, 19</sup> Colorado has experienced a similar escalation in ER visits.<sup>20</sup> The following table lists some of the frightening reactions to synthetic marijuana that emergency rooms and poison control centers are reporting:<sup>21</sup>

Seizures	Hallucinations
Vomiting	Psychosis
Extreme anxiety	Permanent brain damage <sup>22</sup>
Suicidality	Severe kidney damage
Reduced blood flow to heart	Tachycardia
Heart attack	Sudden cardiac arrest
Stroke <sup>23</sup>	Delirium

++Are Viruses the Next Cure for Cancer?

Giant doses of a genetically modified measles vaccine supposedly cured two of blood cancer at the Mayo Clinic this week but this “magic” remedy must be met with caution.

The unlikely strategy of using a live virus to treat cancer took yet another step forward this week with news that scientists at the Mayo Clinic had treated two adults with the blood cancer (in this case multiple myeloma) by injecting them with mega-doses of genetically modified measles virus.

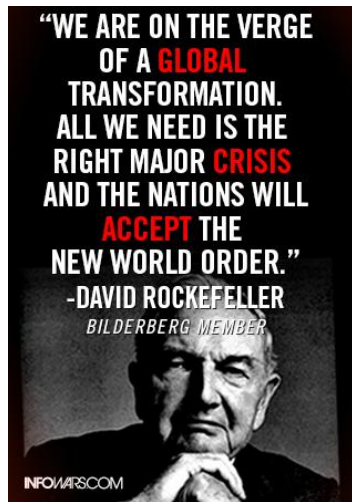

Both patients had failed all other available medical therapies; with the new “oncolytic virus” treatment, each responded and one remains in remission nine months later.

In this study, the patients—neither with existing antibody to measles virus—received enormous doses of a genetically modified live measles virus infused directly into their vein—not given as a shot like a vaccine. Both became feverish and ill with the infusion, as expected, and both recovered. The measles virus was derived from the strain used in routine measles vaccine. It was still, however, a measles virus, capable of giving a person a measles-like illness. The choice of measles for the cancer was quite deliberate—this virus is known to seek out and attack a type of white blood cell that myeloma arises from.

'I Am Legend' and the Depopulation Agenda

Synopsis of the film: In the year 2009, a miracle cure for cancer is announced. It involves a measles virus, genetically engineered to kill cancer cells. This miracle virus mutates into a deadly plague. Military virologist (Lt Col.) Dr. Robert Neville is assigned with the task of finding a cure. Three years later, he is still looking for that cure. The plague has killed off most of the world's population. Of the survivors, most of them have become the "infected," cannibalistic zombie-like mutants.

The film opens with a TV news broadcast announcing the discovery of a cure for cancer. Dr. Alice Krippin describes how she has engineered a genetically modified measles virus to destroy cancer cells. The next scene shows a deserted

New York City on a sunny day virtually all human life gone, exactly how the population controllers want it.

The film "I Am Legend" foresees the following:

1. Massive population reduction
2. The planned release of a mega plague, under the guise of a miracle cure
3. A military quarantine engineered to maximize (not minimize) the death toll.
4. A genetically re-engineered human race.
5. The rise of a false savior that will seek to "restore" humanity with his own blood and death.

Has a plague already arrived? 205 Americans die each day after acquiring superbug hospital infections (NaturalNews) If a jumbo jet crashed into the ocean every single day, it would roughly equal the number of Americans who die each day following superbug infections acquired at U.S. hospitals. Far from being some hyped-up scare story, that's actually the conclusion of none other than the CDC,

"On any given day, 1 in 25 hospital patients has at least one healthcare-associated infection," reports the CDC newsroom.(1)

"The CDC's 2011 survey of 183 hospitals showed that an estimated 648,000 patients nationwide suffered 721,000 infections, and 75,000 of them died," reports the Washington Post.(2)

If you do the math, that comes out to 205 deaths per day, on average, in U.S. hospitals.

Comment: These number are most likely not accurate as "they" always under estimate the true numbers. A hospital-acquired infection (also known as a HAI or in medical literature as a nosocomial infection) is an infection whose development is favored by a hospital environment, such as one acquired by a patient during a hospital visit or one developing among hospital staff.

<http://kff.org/other/state-indicator/total-hospitals/>

Keep in mind that if airplane crashes were killing 205 Americans per day, it would be headline news everywhere, and if vitamins were killing even just 1 person a day, the entire government would be calling to "ban all vitamins!"

But when hospital superbug infections result in the deaths of 205 Americans per day, it is simply another statistic and not treated as a national emergency. Somehow, the annual death of 75,000 Americans is considered "business as usual" in a sick-care system that virtually everyone considers a disastrous failure.

What these numbers prove is that a hospital is a very dangerous place. Simply entering the hospital for a seemingly routine surgical procedure can result in your death. I personally know of many people who entered the hospital to undergo elective, non-emergency surgery and then never came out alive.

And who is the most likely person to infect you in a hospital? Your doctor, of course. The very people who claim to be state-licensed authorities on all things related to health are actually carriers of deadly disease who routinely (and inadvertently) infect new patients with extremely dangerous microbes. They don't do this on purpose, of course, but many don't take the precautions necessary to prevent it.

Hand washing practices, for example are routinely ignored by most medical staff. In fact, a study commissioned by the licensing body for U.S. hospitals found that poor sanitation practices by hospital staff kills 247 patients each day across America. The study found "that doctors and nurses washed their hands only 30 to 70 percent of the time that they entered or exited a patient's room."

By definition, "superbugs" like c. diff, MRSA & others are virtually completely resistant to modern antibiotic drugs. And because conventional medicine completely disregards the antibacterial power of colloidal silver, true foodstate Vitamin C & D-3 and antibacterial herbs like Echinacea & Oregano; patients are never given those treatment options. As a result, a superbug infection almost always means death when you're in the hospital. This is a case where the ignorance of conventional medicine can literally get you killed.

As it turns out, doctors and hospitals have no clue how to stop superbug infections, so they leave patients to die. And they die by the hundreds each day: over 200 daily in the United States alone. The CDC isn't even trying to hide this statistic. They're claiming, in fact, that they are "making progress" on this front when in truth they have already lost the war.

The great failure of modern medicine is that it invented and unleashed the vehicle of our own medical self destruction: antibiotics. These patented chemicals were once heralded as "miraculous cures" but have now thrust humanity to the brink of medical self-destruction. Soon, a simple infection entering your body from a minor scrape or cut may prove deadly, with doctors having run out of prescription chemical weapons to use against it.

And then, every routine surgery will be a life-and-death matter. This includes cosmetic surgery, gallbladder removal surgery and of course emergency room trauma surgery.

As I wrote in September of 2013:

The coming plague will not be stopped by drugs: CDC now admits the era of antibiotics is at an end as the bacteria are out-witting the drug companies. The whole approach of fighting bugs with isolated chemicals was doomed to fail from the start, since pathogens adapt to chemical threats far more quickly than drug companies can roll out new chemicals.

Sadly, the very approach of using an isolated chemical to combat disease is rooted in a 1950's mentality that has nearly reached its endpoint in the history of medicine. The CDC all but admits this now, saying the era of antibiotics is nearing its end. "If we are not careful, we will soon be in a post-antibiotic era" - Dr. Tom Frieden, director of the CDC.

Every day, 205 Americans die from the after effects of antibiotics. Sure, antibiotics saved a lot of lives in the short term, but how many lives will they kill in the long run? Because sooner or later, a superbug plague may emerge that burns through the population.

Comment: This will all be by design. See my presentation: Avian Flu - Killer of Millions

The official cover story will likely be that the plague was a bioweapon released by terrorists, but the real, sobering truth may be is that it's just a runaway superbug nurtured into existence by the careless over-use of antibiotics.

The Days Ahead-What to Expect and How to Prepare--Proactive Measures In the Event of a Pandemic

5000 Mild Silver Protein (M.S.P.) Suggested Therapeutic Dosing Guidelines

1tsp.-1tbsp. for every 30 lbs. of bodyweight per day, if you have been exposed or if you have a virulent virus/Pandemic. The 1 tbsp. dosage would be used for life threatening situations. This dosage should be equally broken up and taken in 3 hour intervals. Stay at home and avoid contact with the populace till the outbreak passes. If taking the M.S.P. drink at least 8, eight ounce glasses of purified water per day. M.S.P. can be used topically with DMSO over an infectious site. Because the 5000 PPM M.S.P. is only available in 4 ounce bottles it would be wise to keep at least a few bottles for each adult family member and 1-2 for each child in your household. View this like an insurance policy that hopefully you will never have to use. Even if you don't use this product in the event of a pandemic, it can be diluted and taken on an everyday basis to keep the immune system strong.

++ Because Invive Silver is so stable it has a 15 year minimum shelf life. Currently the expirations dates are 2025. There is no colloidal silver in any form that can even come close to their shelf life or potency; nor has there been one case of Argyria (turning gray) reported from taking Invive Silver.
