Reprove: To blame, to convince of a fault, or to make it manifest, to excite a sense of guilt.

I John 4:18: "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love."

Heb 13:6: "So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me."

II Timothy 1:7: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

Obama White House with Middle Eastern flavor?

ORIGINAL CAPTION: For a long time, we have noticed that the decor at the White House has changed since BHO moved in.

The Oval Office is now stripped of the traditional red, white, and blue, and replaced with Middle Eastern wallpaper, drapes and decor.

The hallway that he walks out of to talk to the press now has Middle Eastern chairs, drapes, etc. And the thing that has bothered me the most is the bright yellow drape behind him every time he speaks from the White House. It has Arabic symbols on it and has been there from the beginning.

That bright yellow curtain is highly visible, but as you scroll down, you will see what is predominantly absent. Also, as you look at the pictures of other presidents speaking from the same spot, look at the traditional 'American' background and decor as opposed to the new decor. Trust me when I say that this is intentional. It should alarm every American.

What is missing at Barack Hussein Obama's press conference?

No, it is not the teleprompters. That's right...no American flags!!!

It's impossible to think it was just an accident! Staff and past history show protocol. It is intentional. So I ask, why is it intentional?

He told you he would change America, didn't he? This man, whoever he really is, is not an American. He and his ilk want to end the American Free Enterprise System.

Obama gives your tax dollars to rebuild Muslim mosques around the world

While millions of Americans struggle to keep their homes and jobs, President Barack Obama can't give your tax dollars away fast enough.

August 26, 2010

WASHINGTON - The good will tour of the Middle East by the imam behind the proposed mosque near "Ground Zero" is just part of the U.S. government's outreach to the Muslim world.

According to the Associated Press, the Obama administration will give away nearly $6 million of American tax dollars to restore 63 historic and cultural sites, including Islamic mosques and minarets, in 55 nations. See the State Department document here.

This is an outrage! Our country is broke. And can you imagine what the ACLU and others on the secular left would say if these monies had been spent to repair Christian churches? They would be screaming "separation of church and state!" Funding Islam on foreign soil with American taxpayer money? Not a whimper.

The latest taxpayer giveaway includes $76,000 for a 16th century mosque in China, $67,000 for a mosque in Pakistan, $77,000 to restore minarets in Nigeria and Mauritania, and $50,000 for an Islamic Monument in India.

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton says the U.S. program to restore Islamic and other cultural sites in other countries is taxpayer money well spent.

Take Action

Contact your member of Congress today! Ask your representative to immediately condemn this waste of taxpayer dollars and begin an investigation into why American taxpayers are footing the bill to rebuild Islamic mosques overseas.

Muslim Prayers Welcomed At Pentagon Chapel

Less than 100 feet from where a hijacked airplane slammed into the Pentagon, Muslim military personnel bring prayer rugs on weekday afternoons for group worship. On Fridays, a local imam conducts a service in the Pentagon Memorial Chapel built after the September 11, 2001 attacks that killed 184 people at the U.S. military headquarters.

Guess What Obama Signed YOU Up To Pay For! Ground Zero Imam's Mideast Tour Bill Is $16,000 For the US Taxpayers

Imam Feisal Abdul Rauf will get a daily $200 honorarium for the 15-day tour to Bahrain, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates, funded by the US taxpayer. Airfare is included, as well as the standard federal government per diem for expenses and lodging in each of the cities he will visit. The imam starts his tour on Thursday in Bahrain and ends it in the United Arab Emirates Sept. 2. At each stop, he is expected to discuss Muslim life in America and promote religious tolerance.

Obama: I Have No Regrets About Supporting Construction Of NY Mosque At Ground Zero

US President Barack Obama said Wednesday he had "no regrets" about defending the right of Muslims to build a mosque near the New York site of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks. "The answer is: No regrets," the president told NBC television on the sidelines of a visit to a middle-class family aimed at highlighting his efforts to revive the sputtering US economy ahead of November congressional elections.

Sick 9/11 Responders Slam Obama: We're Dying While You Worry About Spreading Islam And Building Mosques

Ailing 9/11 responders slammed President Obama on Tuesday for sounding off on the Ground Zero mosque while keeping silent on a $7.2 billion health care bill. "Why have you failed us? We thought you would be our champion" in pushing the legislation, John Feal wrote to Obama. One of the thousands who worked at The Pile after the World Trade Center attacks, Feal heads the Fealgood Foundation supporting the responders. The plight of the Ground Zero heroes, still suffering and dying from illnesses brought on by the toxic cloud over the twin towers' ruins, has taken a backseat to the political posturing over the mosque, Feal said. Feal told Obama. "It is disturbing that you have the time and energy to speak in favor of the mosque, but not on the health crisis caused by the attacks," said Feal, who lost part of a foot when a steel beam fell on him during cleanup work.

He also declares that if the mosque is built it could prove to be the “spark” that begins a “war between civilizations.” Hamid is well acquainted with the threats from radical Islam — he was once a member of a terrorist Islamic organization along with Dr. Al-Zawahiri, who later became the second in command of al-Qaida. He is the author of "Inside Jihad: Understanding and Confronting Radical Islam," and a regular Newsmax contributor.

Obama Officials' Ties To Ground Zero Imam

With President Obama igniting political controversy by commenting on the right of American Muslims to build an Islamic center and mosque near Ground Zero, it is worth noting the close ties of several Obama administration officials to the cleric behind the proposed project. The ties include a religion adviser to Obama, Eboo Patel, who discussed with Imam Rauf – the controversial Muslim leader behind the ground zero mosque initiative – America as "the ideal place for a renewal of Islam." Also, a scholar and charity head appointed to Obama's White House Fellowships Commission, Vartan Gregorian, who wants to bring the imam's organization into a proposed Ground Zero museum to ensure it will represent the voices of American Muslims. In February, Obama named Patel, a Chicago Muslim, to his Advisory Council on Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships.

In response to the accusations that Obama is not a Christian more than 70 pastors and other Christian leaders signed a letter saying the personal faith of public leaders should not be up for public debate.

Some of the names on the list include Bishop T.D. Jakes, Dr. Joel Hunter, and Rev. Samuel Rodriguez.

"President Obama has been unwavering in confessing Christ as Lord and has spoken often about the importance of his Christian faith," the leaders wrote. "Many of the signees on this letter have prayed and worshipped with this president."

"We believe that questioning, and especially misrepresenting, the faith of a confessing believer goes too far," they continued.

The leaders urged the media, public officials, and other faith leaders "to offer no further support or airtime" to those who question Obama's faith.

An interesting angle in the wake of the decision to allow a mosque near ground zero in New York

In Spain, Sevilla some local people found a way to stop the construction of another mosque in their town. They buried a Pig on the site, making sure this would be known by the local press. Islamic law forbids erecting a Mosque on "Pig soiled ground". The Muslims had to cancel the project..this land was sold to them by government officials..

No protests were needed by the local people ... it worked !!!

The Israelis have been using this strategy since 2004. They put containers of pork fat in all their buses and made sure everybody knew about it. If a suicide bomber decides to explode himself in a bus, he's taking the chance that some of the pig fat ends up on his body and therefore he will not go to Paradise. Israelis buses have been safe from attacks since then. No more attacks.

- JeffBugsMalone Jun. 16

I read where Christians in Baghdad or some other Islamic city where suicide bombers blow people up, have been takin' bacon on board buses and rubbing the fatty meat on the seats, hand bars and window sills. The Muslim bombers WON'T bomb buses anymore because they're too afraid that their body parts will fall on something "tainted" by pig, and then they won't go to heaven! Rather than pigs' blood, all one would have to do is get... bacon or pork chops or pork ANYTHING and throw it on the site. How about a giant water cannon that fires water mixed with pig blood to guard the entrances to the military bases to keep suicide bombers away.

"In the years preceding World War I, General Pershing was commander of the American forces in the Philippines. The small Moslem community on the island nation began to wreak havoc against the Philippine government and American forces. The American troops captured a large group of these terrorists. During the interrogation by the Military Court, the fanatics were heard to repeatedly shout, 'Allah Achbar! Allah Achbar! Jihad! The Philippines are the lands of Islam!'

"Pershing ordered the Muslims executed one by one in the presence of the whole group. Moslems will not eat pork believing that no one could enter Paradise if there is even the smallest amount of swine flesh in their bodies. Knowing this, the General first ordered the firing squad to shoot large hogs. After they skinned the swine, the executioners rolled their bullets in pork fat and passed fat through the barrels of their rifles while the condemned watched. As each condemned terrorist was executed, his corpse was wrapped in hog's skin and buried on the spot. The entrails of the swine were dumped over the corpse before the grave was covered. Three of the convicted Muslim terrorists were released to take the news back to their Islamic Communities. That ended the Islamic Jihad in the Philippines." (Vendyl Jones, RESEARCHER [Arlington, Texas: Vendyl Jones Research Institutes, January 2001]: 20).

Texas Man Stages Pig Races to Protest Islamic Neighbor's Plans to Build Mosque

Friday, January 05, 2007--KATY, Texas — When an Islamic group moved in next door and told Craig Baker the pigs on his family's 200-year-old Texas farm had to go, he and his swine decided to fight back.

In protest of being asked to move, Davis began staging elaborate pig races on Friday afternoons — one of the Islamic world's most holy days.

Craig's neighbors, the Katy Islamic Association, have plans to build a mosque and community compound on the 11 acres they purchased alongside his farm.

Baker, 46, a stone-shop owner whose family has owned the farm for two centuries, says the association knew about the pigs when they bought the property, and it's not fair for them to ask him to get rid of the animals.

"I am just defending my rights and my property," Baker said. "They totally disrespected me and my family."

Initially Baker and Kamel Fotouh, the president of the 500-member Islamic Association, were on good terms. But things turned sour at a town meeting, where Baker says Fotouh insulted him by asking him to move.

"That was the last straw for me ... calling me a liar, especially in front of three or four hundred people at that meeting," Baker said. "Mr. Fotouh said it would be a good idea if I considered packing up my stuff and moving out further to the country."

The Return of the Mahdi Is Nigh

August 24, 2010 | From theTrumpet.com

by Robert Morley

Iran may be days away from going nuclear—in the full sense of the word. On Saturday, Iran began commissioning its first nuclear power plant. Barring a full-scale invasion, it may now be impossible to stop Iran from building nuclear weapons (if it hasn't already). With Russian-supplied uranium in its reactors, any aerial bombing risks spreading nuclear fallout far beyond the Persian Gulf region.

Who would take such a risk? Israel might have previously, but American handcuffing purposefully postponed military options until the risk of fallout made them possibly non-options.

America does not have the will to stop Iran either. It has proven great at talking, at negotiating, at pleading. And at being told what it can do with all its empty rhetoric.

Iran just doesn't care!

On Friday, the day before it began loading its radioactive uranium rods, Iranian Defense Minister, Brig. Gen. Vahidi announced the launch of a special new upgraded surface-to-surface missile. Written on the side of the missile was a very specific and literal message for President Obama, the world, and anyone who would oppose Iran.

“Ya Mahdi.”

Ya Mahdi—also known as the 12th imam—is the most important Shiite personage after Mohammad. The belief of a returning Mahdi, or 12th imam, is a defining doctrine within the most populous group of Shiite Muslims (known as the “Twelvers”), to which Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad is a devout adherent.

Why is this important?

Twelvers believe that the 12th imam will emerge from hiding during a time of world chaos to bring order and exalt Shiite believers to their rightful place. Ahmadinejad belongs to this sect, which believes it is their job to pave the way for the Mahdi’s return. Ahmadinejad claims that Ya Mahdi has communicated with him personally and that it is within his ability to hasten the Mahdi’s return.

The televised viewing of the missile’s launch, which was accompanied by shouts of “Allah Akbar” (meaning, our God is greatest) and timed to coincide with the arrival of nuclear fuel to the Bushehr reactor, sent an unmistakable message.

And if the world didn’t get it, Iran sent it another memo on Sunday, the day after the nuclear reactor got the fuel.

On Sunday, Ahmadinejad announced the completion of Iran’s very first unmanned aerial vehicle (UAV) capable of delivering weapon payloads. Named the Karrar, Ahmadinejad said the new weapon would be an “ambassador of death” for Iran’s enemies.

In the past, American officials have scoffed at Iran’s UAV technology, noting that past models were small drones, only capable of monitoring. This new model has a range of 1,000 kilometers and can carry two bombs weighing 250 pounds each. Analysts say Iran’s rapid advances are due to Russian technology.

In the same Sunday victory speech, Ahmadinejad also announced that Iran would begin mass production of the Bladerunner 51, a boat often referred to as the world’s fastest. Ahmadinejad christened the more heavily armed Iranian version of the Bladerunner “Zolfaqar.” Zolfaqar was the name of Shiite Imam Ali’s famous sword. Imam Ali, the first imam, was known as “Allah’s Lion” for his aggressive wars against unbelievers. Earlier, in June, Iran announced that it would no longer accept UN-approved cargo inspections on Iran-bound ships. From now on, Iran would use its burgeoning navy to retaliate by searching foreign vessels of offending nations.

So with Iran growing stronger and more radicalized, who is going to stop it from speeding the return of Ya Mahdi?

It may not be the United States. Remember the famous 2007 National Intelligence Estimate (NIE) released by the U.S. government claiming that Iran actually gave up its nuclear weapons program way back in 2003. That report also claimed that Iran was a “rational actor” not motivated by religion and that it could be coerced into giving up its civilian nuclear program by conventional means such as economic sanctions and political pressure. Most Americans prefer to live in a fantasy world—like the one portrayed in the NIE.

A fantasy world is one in which someone tells you he is going to do everything he can to wipe you off the face of the map and you don't believe him. A fantasy world is one in which a country labels you as “the Great Satan” but at the same time wants to form a partnership with you. And a fantasy world is one in which a country with the world's third-largest oil and natural gas resources builds a nuclear power station because it needs more electricity.

Unfortunately, when you are dealing with nuclear weapons, living in a fantasy world can lead to a nightmare.

Iran has sent a clear message to the world: We are going nuclear and there is nothing you can do about it. And even if you try, we will actually welcome that because you are just doing us a favor. Long live the 12th imam and hasten his return. . •

EPA Surrenders to NRA on Gun Control Issue

EPA rejects attempt to regulate lead in bullets after NRA protests

By PAUL BEDARD--August 27, 2010--In a swift and unexpected decision, the Environmental Protection Agency today rejected a petition from environmental groups to ban the use of lead in bullets and shotgun shells, claiming it doesn't have jurisdiction to weigh on the controversial Second Amendment issue. The decision came just hours after the Drudge Report posted stories from Washington Whispers and the Weekly Standard about how gun groups were fighting the lead bullet ban.

The EPA had planned to solicit public responses to the petition for two months, but this afternoon issued a statement rejecting a 100-page request from the Center for Biological Diversity, the American Bird Conservancy, and three other groups for a ban on lead bullets, shot, and fishing sinkers. The agency is still considering what to do about sinkers.

The decision was a huge victory for the National Rifle Association which just seven days ago asked that the EPA reject the petition, suggesting that it was a back door attempt to limit hunting and impose gun control. It also was a politically savvy move to take gun control off the table as the Democrats ready for a very difficult midterm election.

Obama to States: Only Feds Can Enforce Immigration Law (but feds will dismiss charges)

By Roy Beck, Thursday, August 26, 2010 - posted on NumbersUSA

At the National Press Club earlier this week, the main question asked me by reporters there was to the effect of "What makes you think the Obama Administration would actually declare a de facto amnesty without going through Congress?"

My answers were good but not nearly so convincing as the Houston story two days later that the feds are dismissing cases against arrested illegal aliens hand over foot.

What we are learning from the Houston story is that the feds say they don't have enough money to deport illegal aliens who haven't committed a violent crime. So, the feds are just releasing them back into the population to continue to commit crimes & illegally hold jobs that unemployed Americans are seeking.

And we are supposed to be inspired by the Obama Administration's claims in court that states should butt out of immigration enforcement because the feds have it covered?

We were holding the press conference to announce a joint letter to Pres. Obama signed by 18 organizations urging him to refrain from using de facto amnesty tactics that were outlined in a memo leaked from his Department of Homeland Security.

The memo -- which we told you about earlier -- outlined ways that Pres. Obama could give some kind of amnesty to as many illegal aliens possible if Congress continues to refuse to pass "comprehensive immigration reform" amnesty.

Judge Halts Federal Funding of Embryonic Stem Cell Research

8/24/2010--Elijah Friedeman, the Millennial Perspective

A judge has halted federal funding of embryonic stem cells, which isn't just "a slap in the face" to the Obama administration, as Reuters says. It's a victory for life. An embryo is obviously a human life, and the destruction of an embryo is the destruction of a human life, even if some people would like to downplay that fact.

A U.S. district court issued a preliminary injunction on Monday stopping federal funding of human embryonic stem cell research in a slap to the Obama administration's new guidelines on the sensitive issue.

The court ruled in favor of a suit filed in June by researchers who said human embryonic stem cell research involves the destruction of human embryos.

Judge Royce Lamberth granted the injunction after finding that the lawsuit would likely succeed because the guidelines violated law banning the use of federal funds to destroy human embryos.

(Embryonic stem cell) research is clearly research in which an embryo is destroyed," Lamberth wrote in a 15-page ruling. The Obama Justice Department says it will appeal a judge's order temporarily halting federal funds for stem cell research that involves the killing of unborn babies.

Ahhh... It's The Good Life! Obama's Begin Sixth Holiday In Last 8 Months... That's A Vacation Every 5 Weeks!?

The Obama family will begin their sixth holiday of the year today, an 11-day sojourn in Martha's Vineyard, the island destination of the wealthy and well-connected American elite. President Barack Obama will be accompanied by his wife Michelle and daughters and are expected to stay at the historic Blue Heron Farm in Chilmark. Bill Burton, the deputy White House press secretary, said that the US president was "going to spend a little time recharging his batteries" at the Massachusetts island ahead of the November midterm elections. "There will be some hiking, some time at the beach, some time at the ice cream store - all the sort of things you do when you're at Martha's Vineyard. You enjoy the people and the good food." He is also expected to work on his swing at Mink Meadows golf club in Vineyard Haven and to work out every day, as he did when the First Family visited Martha's Vineyard last year. The tally of vacation days for an American president has become a contentious issue in recent years.

If there is one generalization that can be accurately asserted about Barack Hussein

Obama and generations of Marxists before him, it is that they are and always have been, universally, hypocrites. They preach classist sermons to the masses, the foundational fodder upon which their failed socialist regimes are constructed, all while living lavish lifestyles characterized by elitism and overly conspicuous consumption. This generalization holds not just for Western socialists, but also for their Soviet-era mentors, of which I am a first-hand witness.

Did you know that, in certain states, government officials can sneak on to your property, slip under your car in your driveway, and position a GPS monitoring device -- without breaking the law or the Constitution?

NEWS BRIEF: "The Government Can Use GPS to Track Your Moves", August 25, 2010

"Government agents can sneak onto your property in the middle of the night, put a GPS device on the bottom of your car and keep track of everywhere you go."

To all Americans who are used to the Constitutional rights to privacy, this is shocking news, indeed! How could any court in this land allow this to occur? The extremely Liberal Ninth Circuit Court of appeals is the one court in the land which has created this draconian dictatorship scenario. Granting police this authority smacks of Russian Communism during the Stalin days. The Communist Secret Police took surveillance actions with their level of technology that was just as troubling as this new authority given American police departments.

How does the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals justify granting this new police power in light of the privacy restrictions of the Fourth Amendment?

"This doesn't violate your Fourth Amendment rights, because you do not have any reasonable expectation of privacy in your own driveway — and no reasonable expectation that the government isn't tracking your movements. That is the bizarre — and scary — rule that now applies in California and eight other Western states. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, which covers this vast jurisdiction, recently decided the government can monitor you in this way virtually anytime it wants — with no need for a search warrant."

The Absolute Dictatorship which Doc Marquis describes in his new DVD's, "The Protocols of Zion" and "The Illuminati Is Fulfilling Prophecy" is now coming to reality very quickly. The "Familiar Spirits" told Illuminati leaders over 200 years ago that, at the right moment in history, they would be able to establish the most ruthless and cruel and efficient dictatorship the world had ever seen. And these leaders of 200 years ago accepted that revelation of blind faith; now, in 2010, we can see how incredible advances in technical surveillance coupled with equally shocking loss of Constitutional rights, is leading America directly into the terrible teeth of this dictatorship.

DVD

But, even more frightening is the scientific advance into Mark of the Beast technology that will allow the implanted chip to even control your thinking! You realize further the type of trouble we are in when you learn that the Federal Government is heavily funding the most advanced chip on earth and that the specific agency spearheading this effort is the dark and shadowy "anti-terrorist" agency known as D.A.R.P.A. This agency is the one we fingered in 2002 as the one who would bring dictatorship to this country under the guise of fighting terror!

Returning to the Ninth Circuit Appeals Court, we sounded the alarm back in early 2002, when President Bush and his "Christian" Attorney General, John Ashcroft, took their case to the Ninth Circuit Appeals Court, arguing that the Federal Government had the right to arrest citizens without charges, without right to an attorney or to a trial and to even execute them secretly!

That is how Liberal the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has always been. It is no wonder that the Western states who fall under its jurisdiction have been hit with this horrible breach of our Constitutional rights to Privacy.

Putting the FUN into RFID from Facebook and Coca-Cola

rageunderground | August 24, 2010--These are some of the first steps to warn the public to RFID Chips.

They implemented these facebook-bracelets at the Coca Cola Village, a watersport, sunbathing, gameplaying amusement park activity-thing for teenagers. When the guests arrive, they are given a bracelet ID which transmits an RFID signal, which they program with their facebook login. They can then "like" activities and places in the real village, and their actions show up on facebook. Most teenagers are driven by vanity, so there was a photographer present as well, if you wanted to tag yourself in any given image all you had to do was wave your ID bracelet to the photographer.

This will ultimately lead to the public getting permanent chips.

RFID Trash Cans To Monitor Your Recycling Habits

<http://blog.cleveland.com/> It would be a stretch to say that Big Brother will hang out in Clevelanders' trash cans, but the city plans to sort through curbside trash to make sure residents are recycling -- and fine them $100 if they don't.

The move is part of a high-tech collection system the city will roll out next year with new trash and recycling carts embedded with radio frequency identification chips and bar codes.

The chips will allow city workers to monitor how often residents roll carts to the curb for collection. If a chip show a recyclable cart hasn't been brought to the curb in weeks, a trash supervisor will sort through the trash for recyclables.

Trash carts containing more than 10 percent recyclable material could lead to a $100 fine, according to Waste Collection Commissioner Ronnie Owens. Recyclables include glass, metal cans, plastic bottles, paper and cardboard.

City Council on Wednesday approved spending $2.5 million on high-tech carts for 25,000 households across the city, expanding a pilot program that began in 2007 with 15,000 households.

The expansion will continue at 25,000 households a year until nearly all of the city's 150,000 residences are included. Existing carts might be retrofitted with the microchips.

The chip-embedded carts are just starting to catch on elsewhere. The Washington, D.C. suburb of Alexandria, Va., earlier this year announced it would issue carts to check whether people are recycling.

Some cities in England have used the high-tech trash carts for several years to weigh how much garbage people throw out. People are charged extra for exceeding allotted limits.

Full-Body Scan Technology Deployed In Street-Roving Vans

By ANDY GREENBERG-- Aug. 24 2010--As the privacy controversy around full-body security scans begins to simmer, it's worth noting that courthouses and airport security checkpoints aren't the only places where backscatter x-ray vision is being deployed.

The same technology, capable of seeing through clothes and walls, has also been rolling out on U.S. streets.

American Science & Engineering, a company based in Billerica, Massachusetts, has sold U.S. and foreign government agencies more than 500 backscatter x-ray scanners mounted in vans that can be driven past neighboring vehicles to see their contents, Joe Reiss, a vice president of marketing at the company told me in an interview. While the biggest buyer of AS&E's machines over the last seven years has been the Department of Defense operations in Afghanistan and Iraq, Reiss says law enforcement agencies have also deployed the vans to search for vehicle-based bombs in the U.S.

"This product is now the largest selling cargo and vehicle inspection system ever," says Reiss.

Here's a video of the vans in action.

The Z Backscatter Vans, or ZBVs, as the company calls them, bounce a narrow stream of x-rays off and through nearby objects, and read which ones come back. Absorbed rays indicate dense material such as steel. Scattered rays indicate less-dense objects that can include explosives, drugs, or human bodies.

It would also seem to make the vans mobile versions of the same scanning technique that's riled privacy advocates as it's been deployed in airports around the country. The Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC) is currently suing the DHS to stop airport deployments of the backscatter scanners, which can reveal detailed images of human bodies.

"It's no surprise that governments and vendors are very enthusiastic about [the vans]," says Marc Rotenberg, executive director of EPIC. "But from a privacy perspective, it's one of the most intrusive technologies conceivable."

Congressman Takes On Invasive Vans That Peer Into Homes

Posted: 27 Aug 2010 07:17 AM PDT

(KSL) – Utah Congressman Jason Chaffetz is speaking out against vans that carry scanning technology inside them that allows people to see through the walls of cars, trucks, and even into homes.

"These vans essentially can look through the walls of your home, look through the walls of a vehicle or a container and they can tell what's inside. They can see through people's clothes and give you some great detail about people's bodies, much like they do at the airport. That's pretty scary," Chaffetz tells KSL Newsradio.

Chaffetz says there are a few legitimate uses for the vans during a hostage situation or on the border to inspect trucks coming into the country, but he says other uses of the technology are an invasion of privacy that must be limited.

"To think that a van can drive down the street and literally look through the walls of a home and see who is inside and what they are doing. It was cute and funny when we thought about it in the context of Superman but when you realize they have already sold 500 of these vans, I've got real concerns about how and where we are using these," says Chaffetz.

The congressman says he's already working on legislation aimed at limiting what circumstances these Z Backscatter Vans, or ZBV's as they are called, could be used for.

ENTRY DENIED. All MEETINGS CANCELED -Andrew Strom

I am very sorry to announce to those of you who were planning on attending some of our meetings over the next month that we have been denied entry to the USA and sadly will have to cancel all the meetings.

My whole family were detained for over 6 hours at the US border yesterday (the USA side), questioned, photographed, fingerprinted like criminals – and sent back to Canada. We were told we could not come in to preach to a series of Christian groups like this – even though their website clearly says we CAN – and I have already been in TWICE THIS YEAR doing exactly the same thing. They let me in then – but no more. They even fingerprinted my 15-year-old daughter. None of us (except our 9 and 11-year olds) can even set foot in the USA again without going to the US Consulate and getting special permission. We literally are now in the “criminal” class according to US Immigration.

All this because we were invited by church groups and Christian groups across the USA to come and preach a series of meetings. They told me to do that I have to have an “R” visa. (These take months and months to get – often never). This is not what their website says. New Zealand is a “visa-waiver” country and Conference speakers are specifically allowed into the US under those rules. I asked them, “How then can a foreign preacher who is invited by a Christian group to the USA ever get in to preach?” They said maybe that is OK for one or two meetings, but not for a series. So we cannot preach in churches across the nation – even though that is exactly what they have let me in to do before. This is the first time I have ever been denied entry to do that very thing. And now we are all – very evidently – “criminals”. Never to darken the door again.

Jer 7:28 ¶ But thou shalt say unto them, This is a nation that obeyeth not the voice of the LORD their God, nor receiveth correction: truth is perished, and is cut off from their mouth.

My family and I naturally came home from this pretty distraught and devastated. My daughter was crying in the car. Six hours is a long time to be detained like that.

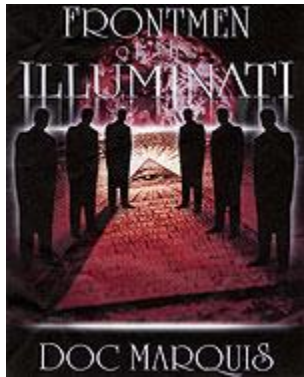

But, you know, at the end of the day, God is in control. I felt sure then and I feel sure now that even though this was so distressing, God was still speaking to us through it all. I believe He is the one who is slamming the door shut on America right now – and doing so in no uncertain terms. We have been praying and many others have been praying for too long for this to have just been “man’s” decision. I accept it as the voice of God. America is over for us.

I just want to apologize again to all those who wanted to attend our upcoming meetings. I am very sorry, my friends. Our family is still pretty shaken by all of this, so we would certainly appreciate your prayers at this time.

God bless you all.

DVD

In another example of the encroachment of our increasingly hostile government intent upon taking away our rights, we learn of the plans to over-react to a cyber attack in such a way as to seize control of infrastructure and communications networks!

NEWS BRIEF: "Pentagon's cybersecurity plans have a Cold War chill", By David Ignatius, The Washington Post, August 26,

"With little fanfare, the Pentagon is putting the finishing touches on a new strategy that will treat cyberspace as a domain of potential warfare -- and apply instant "active defense" to counter attacks that, in theory, could shut down the nation's transportation and commerce. America's closest allies would be drawn into an early-warning network of collective cybersecurity; private industry would be mobilized in a kind of civil defense against attackers; and military commanders would be given authority to respond automatically to electronic invaders."

The public rhetoric states that the purpose of all this is to make "America's infrastructure robust and redundant enough to survive any attack".

But, the powers granted the government on the basis of any type of cyber attack far outweigh the threat. Whenever you see this kind of action occur, you know you are looking at the excuse by which the government intends to impose its coming dictatorship.

"William J. Lynn III, the deputy secretary of defense, explained the new approach, known as "Cyberstrategy 3.0" within the Pentagon, in an interview this week and in an article that appears in the new issue of Foreign Affairs. The formal policy should be completed by December, he said; meanwhile, the Pentagon's new "Cyber Command" will have responsibility for "active defense" starting Oct. 1. "

At this point, this Washington Post journalist pleads for restraint on the part of the government.

"In the debate about cyberstrategy, I hope officials will recognize the dangers of militarizing the global highway for commerce and communication. Of course we want to protect ourselves against threats. But as with human viruses, hostile computer bugs will evade our best efforts at quarantine. A new (and expensive) obsession with cybersecurity is not what this traumatized country needs. "

While I can sympathize with the feeling of Mr. Ignatius, the issue is not what "this traumatized country needs"; the issue of the hour is what the Illuminati is planning to do to our formerly free country. They plan to institute the most repressive dictatorship in world history, backed by the most sophisticated technology the world has ever seen.

All across the board, the Federal Government is slyly and as quietly as possible, getting all the laws changed and all the court decisions they need, and then they will pounce, taking away our freedoms in a moment of time, after the World War III has begun! That is our future and that is Bible prophecy. What should we do? We should take all action possible to spread this word to an unsaved people, urging them to work diligently to sow Gospel Seed so as many precious souls may be saved as possible.

Think of standing before Jesus at the Judgment Seat of Christ Day, to have Him judge your actions and motives after you were saved.

2Cr 5:10-11 For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things [done] in [his] body, according to that he hath done, whether [it be] good or bad. Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men;

1Cr 3:11 For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

1Cr 3:12 Now if any man build upon this foundation gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble;

1Cr 3:13 Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is.

1Cr 3:14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward.

1Cr 3:15 If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire.

1Cr 3:16 Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and [that] the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?

1Cr 3:17 If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple] ye are.

Most likely one of the main ways the Lord Jesus Christ is going to judge us is going to be on the number of people to whom we reached out with the Gospel especially after you saw the "sword" of the Illuminati/NWO approaching? Listen to God's warning: "But if the watchman see the sword come, and blow not the trumpet, and the people be not warned; if the sword come, and take any person from among them, he is taken away in his iniquity; but his blood will I require at the watchman's hand." (Ezekiel 33:6)

Through Cutting Edge & other ministries like it you are more aware of how all the pieces of the puzzle fit together in this End of the Age period. You know the Illuminati Plan and how it is fulfilling Bible prophecy. Now you are alerted so that you can alert others so they can be saved.

Now that you know what the Lord wants, make sure every day you are "about your Father's business"! <http://www.cuttingedge.org/newsletters/newsalert.htm>

Gulf Scientists: “Weirdest thing I’ve ever seen”, “Unprecedented”, “Never been seen before” — and that’s only reports from today

AUGUST 22ND, 2010--Today’s Press-Register described scientists as “intrigued” and “puzzled” by the brown residue covering the ocean floor in areas just offshore stretching from Florida to Mississippi.

The experts’ own words went a bit further:

“If I had a nickel for everything about this spill that’s never been seen before.”

“A lot of unusual things are going to be happening.”

- Naman said found no propylene glycol, the main ingredient of Corexit 9500.
- Naman said he went to Dauphin Island, Alabama last night and while there observed many 250-500 gallon barrels which were labeled Corexit 9527. Naman took pictures that he will soon be sharing.
- Naman said he saw men applying the Corexit 9527 while he was in Dauphin Island and also in Bayou La Batre, Alabama.
- Naman said the Corexit 9527 is being haphazardly sprayed at night and is impacting beach sands in a highly concentrated form.

Scientists oppose the use of dispersant chemicals in the Gulf of Mexico, MSNBC, July 16, 2010:

Corexit 9527A contains 2-BTE (2-butoxyethanol), a toxic solvent that ruptures red blood cells, causing hemolysis (bleeding) and liver and kidney damage . Both Corexit dispersants contain petroleum solvents that mix with the crude oil mass and move through it, thus increasing the uptake of oil by organisms.

“We’re seeing way more dispersant than ever before” Large, thick oil plumes, freshly sprayed with poison!

August 25, 2010 by Alex -- The Intel Hub

Today, Project Gulf Impact is out on the waters in and around Orange Beach Alabama. What they have found is exactly the opposite of what BP and the federal government have told the American people. Not only did they find oil but they apparently found what looks to be freshly sprayed dispersant, still in powder form.

Why is this toxic dispersant still being sprayed? Warnings from scientists and independent journalists have indicated that Corexit could effect the gulf for at least twenty years.

“Dead fish in Alabama – cells ruptured with lots of corexit and dispersed oil all around....The oil is thick, dispersant already trying to hide it, with dead catfish in plumes.”

As I am writing this article, Project Gulf Impact is still out on the waters. They are documenting the existence of oil and dispersant and will be uploading more videos/pictures. This is absolutely disgusting.

Alabama Charges BP, Transocean For BP Gulf Oil Spill Coverup and Using Dangerous Toxic Dispersants

August 28, 2010 by Alex -- The Intel Hub

By Alexander Higgins--Now if we can only get other states to follow suit AND add a few more defendants to the list like the cronies in the Government who are allowing this to happen.

WKRG News 5 in Alabama reports that the Attorney General of Alabama has filed charges against BP and Transocean for covering up the BP Gulf Oil Spill and using a dangerous and highly toxic choice of chemical dispersants among other things. Alabama's attorney general is suing BP and others over the Gulf oil spill saying the oil giant has broken too many promises.

Attorney General Troy King filed two lawsuits in federal court in Montgomery late Thursday afternoon. One suit is against BP, the other against Transocean.

In a statement released Friday, King said "their history of saying one thing and doing another, and now, new information that they have been secretly working to gain a legal advantage, can only further damage our people."

The lawsuit claims "defendants were slow and incompetent, if not dishonest, in their announcements and warnings to the state of Alabama and its citizens and businesses," referring to the drastic difference in the initial oil flow estimate of 1,000 barrels per day and the latest estimate of as much as 60,000 barrels per day.

The lawsuit, which seeks unspecified money damages plus punitive damages, also references BP's choice of a "highly toxic chemical used to disperse oil in the ocean."

Perhaps the United States is not as close as we think in surrendering its sovereignty to the United Nations, as Senators take a stand against the world body's encroachment upon our children's rights!

NEWS BRIEF: "Senators line up to tell U.N. to leave kids alone: by Bob Unruh, World Net Daily, August 22, 2010

"Thirty-one Republican senators have agreed to oppose the United Nations' "Convention on the Rights of the Child" treaty, and critics of the international plan to vest children with a long list of rights – such as a right to seek government review of parental decisions – are looking for three more names. "

"The campaign by supporters of ParentalRights.org opposes an effort to put the U.N. advocacy plan into operation in the United States ... The resolution states the U.N. Convention on the Rights of the Child should not even be presented to the Senate for a vote, which would require two-thirds approval for ratification, because it 'is contrary to the principles of self-government and federalism, and ... because the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child undermines traditional principles of law in the United States regarding parents and children'."

The Russian Communist system realized that parental attitudes and values were so powerful as to throw a huge obstacle to the government system of molding the minds of the children into the atheistic Communist model. Russian Premier, Nikita Khrushchev, was asked one day why the Russian government was having trouble indoctrinating the Communist philosophy into young children. Khrushchev replied that the problem was being caused by the "grandmother factor", which he explained:

"While the kids were properly trained in a Communist school all during the day, they would go home and at some point in the evening, would sit on grandma's lap and talk with her. She would tell the children of the "old days" and of the "old values", i.e., Christian values."

Thus, grandma would undo or de-propagandize, the children!

As we are heading into the New World Order, the world body has come to grips with ways in which to reach into the homes in the evening and on weekends, to prevent parents and grandparents from undoing the propaganda which kids are learning today in public school.

The answer the United Nations has created is the "Rights of the Child". Among other things, the U.N. has created the "right" of children to not be subjected to Christian values. The U.N. proposes laws which would prevent parents from teaching Christian values within the home, on the pain of yanking the children out of the home.

Just consider some of the provisions of this U.N. treaty:

 "In the United Kingdom, the CRC already has been used to assert that authorities have complete access to the homes – at any time – of students who are homeschooled."

 "The 'best interest of the child' principle would give the government the ability to override every decision made by every parent if a government worker disagreed with the parent's decision."

 "A child's 'right to be heard' would allow him (or her) to seek governmental review of every parental decision with which the child disagreed."

Children will be told by public school authorities what "rights" they have under this law, and will be encouraged to report their parents to authorities if they break any of these U.N. "rights". And, children will take this action rather than be punished, for as the Bible states, all punishment at the time is grievous.

This is the hideous face of this United Nations "Rights of the Child" treaty. We must oppose it vehemently as long as we are able to express our outrage to our government!

Parents of 50 Million U.S. Children May Soon Lose Parental Rights

If your children attend public school, you are among those parents whose rights will end the moment your child enters the school. That's because in 2005 the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals found in Fields v. Palmdale School District "that the Meyer-Pierce right [of parents to direct the upbringing of their children] does not exist beyond the threshold of the school door."

You read that right. Parental Rights "[do] not exist beyond the threshold of the school door."

"We conclude that the parents are possessed of no constitutional right to prevent the public schools from providing information on the subject [of sexuality] to their students in any forum or manner they select" (emphasis added).

Of course, most parents contend they don't have a choice in where their children are schooled. Either economic constraints or personal circumstances leave them with no practical alternative to the local public school. And that leaves no parental rights at all.

Please act to reverse this assault by big government courts against parental rights. Sign the petition and get more information at ParentalRights.org.

Then, please pass this on. Every parent of a public school student needs to know the extent to which the courts have robbed them of their rights. Forward this email to friends or click here to visit this page online and use the “share” button to add it to virtually any other social network.

Looking Ahead

This is the first of several court cases we plan to review for you in the coming weeks. The courts’ disregard for the traditional formative role of parents in a child’s life needs to be brought to light. And while the Parental Rights Amendment will not give parents any greater power to control the school’s choice of curriculum, it will protect their right to pull their individual child out of any program of an outrageous or offensive nature, like the program in the Palmdale case. For all of the fully clothed readers among us, a nakation is a naked vacation. And, it seems, Americans are warming to the idea: Nearly one out of every two people surveyed by travel site TripAdvisor said they’d be willing to bare it all at a beach. That’s up from 3 out of 10 last year. And it's not just campgrounds full of flabby hippies preaching free love. There are an increasing number of naked destinations, including beaches, resorts, cruise lines and spas. So, why would people choose to take their clothes off in public — if they're not getting paid for it? Well, according to the AANR (the American Association of Nude Recreation), vacationing in the nude is more relaxing, relieves stress and and, contrary to what you might think — it's actually good for your self-esteem.

Calls have now begun to eliminate the immunity of Catholic priests to prosecution for their sex crimes.

NEWS BRIEF: "Clerical immunity must end", Irish Times, August 23, 2010

"THE 'ERA of clerical immunity' has to end in Ireland ... US lawyer and former Benedictine monk Patrick Wall acknowledged the special position of the Catholic Church had been removed from the Irish Constitution in 1973, but 'it has not been removed from the soul of Ireland'."

In other words, the Irish Catholic Church still is being protected by an informal and invisible force, which is in place because too many citizens still regard the Church as being worthy of such protection.

"A US lawyer based in California with Manly Stewart, which has handled many hundreds of abuse cases on behalf of victims, he said clergy, including bishops, who hid details of clerical sexual abuse of children 'should do jail time'."

Well it is apparent that Jesus Christ advocates a sterner punishment:

Mar 9:42	And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.

Some priests in America are already doing jail time, but the number is miniscule compared to the number who should be behind bars.

"All documentation about abuse should be secured from religious authorities, he said. If we are to learn from the crimes against children, public access to all church records on predator priests is necessary'."

People should start thinking of Catholic priests as being sexual predators. When 75% of men attending Catholic seminaries are openly gay, as Bill Schnoebelen reports in the DVD shown above, "Catholicism: A Church On Haunted Hill", then you have the distinct possibility that the percentage of predatory priests spread throughout the churches might reach toward that number as well.

Lawsuits are popping up all across the globe, but especially in America. If lawsuits start appearing in the International Court, the Pope might be brought to justice.
